HIGHWAY SCANDAL IS UNCOVERED

Brickner Quits Channel Attempt

Cramp Spoils His Try

CALAIS, France (UP)—Gustave Adolph Brickner, 45-year-old steelworker of Charleroi, Pa., gave up his attempt to swim the English Channel at 10:50 a.m. (6:50 a.m. e.d.t.) today.

The small fishing boat Roland Sonia, which had accompanied him on his channel crossing attempt this morning, docked here with Brickner aboard at 2 p.m. (9 a.m. e.d.t.).

Brickner's legs were crippled by cramp almost from the minute he entered the water, and for about two hours he swam with only the use of his arms But he had to be forced to climb aboard the fishing boat.

Brickner was reported to have decided to go back to the United States and give up swimming for good.

Brickner had begun his twice-delayed swim across the channel from France to England at 5:12 a.m. (12:12 a.m. e.d.t.).

He expected to make the 30-odd miles from Cap Gris Nez to Dover, England, within 15 hours.

The water and weather favored the Pennsylvanian who was accompanied by the fishing boat Roland Sonia carrying coffee, sugar and peaches.

First This Summer

Brickner was the first swimmer to attempt the difficult France to England crossing this summer. He entered the water covered with almost seven pounds of grease.

He smeared a light, white cream as protection for his face.

Because of the currents, he was expected to swim 30 or more miles before reaching the English shore. Brickner appeared on the beach in red and bue striped trunks, but he later discarded them in favor of a pair of flowered laxtex trunks he wore in his swim across Lake Ontario.

Unfavorable tides and strong winds made him call off his first planned attempt last Friday. He started to try again Tuesday but called off the attemp because of bad weather and high seas.

Wife's Comments

Mrs. Gus Brickner of 708 Shady Ave., Charleroi, said this morning that she felt "if the winds and tide had been with Gus he would have made it."

"I naturally feel sorry for him that he didn't make it but have heard he may take another chance."

The wife of the long-distance swimmer said she didn't know her husband was in the water until a friend called her this morning to inform her of the long-awaited attempt to conquer the Channel.

Neil H. McElroy

Ikt to Name McElroy as New Defense Secretary

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower announced today that he plans to nominate soap manufacturer Neil H. McElroy to succeed Charles E. Wilson as secretary of defense.

He said the actual nomination will not be made, however, until the Cincinnati businessman passes an extensive but routine government investigation of his fitness for the key cabinet post.

The President said Wilson notified him some time ago that he wanted to leave the cabinet before the Defense Department starts this fall to prepare next year's budget.

Eisenhower called McElroy one of the most capable men in America.

McElroy, 52-year-old president of Procter and Gamble, conferred with the Chief Executive for 15 minutes at the White House Tuesday following a second conference with Wilson at the Defense Department.

He went to an office adjoining Wilson's to study the scope of the job before going to the White House. McElroy originally was scheduled to leave Washington Tuesday afternoon.

The $285,000-a-year businessman will be accepting a $25,000 job.

Wilson has not resigned but has indicated he wants to leave the Eisenhower "team" no later than this fall.

The accident occurred at the corner of Fifth St. and Fallowfield Ave. Driver of the car was Bernett Lee Roberts, of R. D, Monongahela.

Ike Points Out 'Ray Of Hope'

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today that world disarmament would follow almost automatically from any East-West agreement to free the world from the fear of surprise attack.

If progress is made on relieving the world of the fear of surprise attack, the President said this would be the greatest ray of hope on the dark world scene since he has been in the White House.

Eisenhower told his news conference that he has the utmost hope that the Soviet Union will agree to the latest American-Allied proposals for aerial and ground inspection zones. These proposals were put before Russia by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at the London disarmament talks.

Major Points

Other major points in his news conference:

—He said Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson had notified him sometime ago that he wanted to quit before work started this fall on a new budget. He said he expected to name Cincinnati soap manufacturer Neil H. McElroy to replace Wilson, if McElroy passes a thorough government investigation of his qualifications.

—The jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill as adopted by the Senate would seriously hamper the operations of the federal courts system. He declined to say whether he would veto the rights bill if it reaches him in the Senate form. But he re-stated his opposition to the amendment.

Successor in Mind

—He has a successor in mind to replace John Holister as head of the International Cooperation Administration, but Holister has promised to remain in his post at the President's convenience.

—He dismissed as unconsequential a comment by Rep. Cleveland H. Bailey (D-W.Va.) who last week described Eisenhower as a "lousy liar" in connection with defeat of the school construction bill.

On the disarmament matter, Eisenhower said that if the inspection proposals are accepted they will relieve the world from the great fear of a surprise, devastating attack. Then, he added, disarmament would follow step-by-step almost automatically.

The President said the American - Allied offer to set up inspection zones would cover all of North America north of the Rio Grande and all of Europe, in exchange for similar zones of inspection over the Soviet Union and its satellites in Europe. Acceptance of this great proposal,

Steelworker Says He 'Stuffed' Ballot Box

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A notarized statement in which a former Pittsburgh steelworker admitted he "stuffed" a ballot box in the United Steelworkers election was forwarded today to the Senate Rackets Committee.

Attorney James Ashton, counsel for the insurgent Dues Protest Committee, disclosed that about 750 ballots were dumped on the porch of his Glassport home following the Feb. 12 union election.

Ashton said all the dumped ballots were marked for Donald C. Rarick, Dues Protest leader who lost to David J. McDonald in the election for the USW presidency.

He said the Senate Rackets Committee was shown the ballots at a closed door meeting in Washington June 14. The ballots since have been returned to him and still are in his possession, Ashton said.

The Senate committee has asked the union's 2,500 locals to impound all ballots and voting records until further notice. Under the USW constitution, the six months period for retention of this material would have expired last Monday.

Identifies Worker

Ashton identified the steelworker admitting the alleged ballot box stuffing as George E. Crosby, 38, a former employe of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. plant at Hazelwood. Ashton said Crosby's statement was notarized Tuesday night by W. Davis Grove, Glassport.

Crosby, who said he had been dismissed from his job as first helper in a blast furnace department, alleged he was paid to solicit votes for the McDonald faction.

His statement said: "My job consisted of stuffing the ballot box with McDonald ballots whenever the opportunity presented itself.

"I was given marked ballots by Harry Llewellyn, zone committee man, and on his orders I stuffed

Continue Search For Masontown Murder Suspect

The Federal Bureau of Investigation and police throughout the nation are continuing their search for Joseph Watreas, Jr., of Masontown, accused slayer of Alvie O. Partridge, elderly Masontown grocer.

A complete description of Watreas' car, including the license number, was released last night by State Police Trooper Anthony A. Cywinski, of Uniontown barracks, one of the officers working on the case.

Trooper Cywinski said the auto is a 1950 four-door Buick Special sedan, colored light gray or "off white." The last known license number of the car was 1957 Pennsylvania registration 207882.

The car has vanished as completely as the 29-year-old Watreas, former star high school athlete charged with brutally strangling Partridge during a robbery attempt on July 29.

The front end of a West Penn Power Co. building at 13th St. and McKean Ave. in Charleroi was damaged early this morning by a car operated by Leona Miller, of R. D. 3, Finleyville, Charleroi police reported.

The rail removal project for Donner Ave. started at Oneida street two weeks ago. At noon today it had reached near Fifth street.

The parking ban announced by Kuvinka is part of an overall plan to relieve traffic congestion in the downtown district.

The Donner Ave. parking ban has been approved by City officials on a 90-day basis.

Federal Jury Indicts Russian On Spy Charges

NEW YORK (UP)—A federal grand jury today indicted Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, a top Russian intelligence officer, on charges of transmitting American defense secrets to Moscow while posing as a photographer in Brooklyn.

Abel, a Russian citizen, faces execution if convicted of the charges under the peacetime espionage act of 1954.

Abel was arrested at McAllen, Tex., and will be arraigned later today before U.S. Commissioner J.C. Hall at Edinburg, Tex.

Authorities said Abel was one of the most daring spies ever caught in the United States. He was reported to be the head of a ring which attempted to enlist U.S. servicemen as spies and communicated with Russia by short wave radio.

A three count indictment charged Abel with gathering information for the Kremlin "relating to the national defense of the United States and particularly information as to arms equipment and disposition of the armed forces and the atomic energy program." It said Abel held the Russian rank of colonel and had been a member of the Soviet's top intelligence agency since 1927.

When Abel was arrested in McAllen, Texas, just a few miles from the Mexican border, he had $6,000 on him, indicating that he might have planned to flee the United States.

Abel, using the aliases of Mark Collins and Emil Goldfus, set up a film studio directly across from

Governor Says Three Democrats Are Involved

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today faced the possibility of a widespread "cinder" scandal which so far involves three Democratic appointees to the state Highways Department and a Frackville contractor.

Leader called a special news conference Tuesday afternoon to reveal that Victor Patrikonis, owner of the Prep Contracting Co., and three former county highway superintendents, were cited in an investigation still in progress by the Justice Department.

Patrikonis, also known as Victor Prep, was arrested last week on charges of false pretenses and conspiracy. He also is under indictment for perjury and bribery resulting from the multi-million dollar Pennsylvania Turnpike swindle.

Gov. Leader also implicated Frank S. Jamieson, district maintenance engineer for the Highway Department with headquarters at Haverford; Philip J. Price, employed in the Highway Purchasing Division of the Property and Supplies Department, and John Crerand, who has resigned from state service.

No Charges Yet

The three men, all former county highway superintendents, have not been formally charged. The governor indicated they would be arrested shortly.

The alleged fraud took place during 1955-56 in Chester, York and Lancaster counties. Other irregularities may be uncovered in 19 other counties where the Prep firm held cinder contracts. Gov. Leader said about $45,000 was involved in the first three counties.

Crerand, of Manchester RD 1, was formerly highway superintendent of York County and Democratic county chairman in Gov. Leader's home county.

Jamieson, West Chester, was superintendent in Chester County and Price headed the Lancaster department. Both men were suspended following Leader's charges.

Leader charged Prep "corrupted" the state workers with a $1 pay-off for each ton of cinders paid for by the state but not actually delivered. He said the fraud was engineered through erroneous cinder weight slips.

To Recover $45,000

The governor said the $45,000 would be recovered by withholding payment to the Prep firm for cinders actually delivered and recoveries on fidelity bonds posted for the three former county superintendents.

The Prep firm billed the state for $148,000 worth of cinders for use on the three county's highway systems while actually delivering only $103,000 worth of cinders, Leader said.

Prep also operates the Tri-City Cinder Co. and Northeastern Aggregates Co., both at Frackville, but the governor said there was no indication that the firms were involved.

Gov. Leader conceded the three state employes were appointees of his administration but added, "when any employe of this administration does wrong he can expect to be held fully accountable to me."

"It now seems irrevocably clear

President Raps Admendment to Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower said today the jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill would be the most damaging to the entire federal judiciary.

The President restated his opposition to the amendment, adopted by the Senate, at his news conference.

He declined, however, to say whether he would veto the bill if it reached his desk in its present form.

He repeated his statement of Aug. 2 that the measure as amended by the Senate would seriously hamper operations of the federal courts system.

Meanwhile, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson said he will seek agreement later today for a Senate vote on passage of the civil rights measure—tonight if possible. He predicted passage by a two-third margin.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland, looking ahead to a conference with the House on the measure, said that administration lawyers are drawing up a new compromise which they hope will be acceptable to the President and the two houses.

'Country Doctor' Is Honored in Burgettstown

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa. (UP) — Today was "Doctor Hindman Day" in this Washington County community.

It was a chance for the town's 2,500 residents to thank 81-year-old Dr. Audley O. Hindman for the 57 years he has spent here as a "country doctor."

Main Street was decked with banners, the Little Leaguers played a ball game in the doctor's honor, and the whole town took off to attend a basket picnic and reception in the community park.

Tonight, the elderly doctor will be presented a gold watch and a bronze plaque for his "faithful and outstanding service to the people of Raccoon Valley."

Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh, a long time friend of Dr. Hindman's, will be the principal speaker.

Eugene Vosburg, publisher of the Burgettstown Enterprise, wrote of the town's benefactor:

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (UP) — Waynesburg Borough Burgess Fay Headlee, whose salary is $800 a year, loaned his employer $10,000 Tuesday.

During a council meeting, when a resolution was offered to make a short term loan to meet borough bills, Headlee said, "I'll loan you the money."

"At four per cent?", a councilman asked.

Headlee, a retired oil and gas operator, agreed to the rate and council quickly okayed the deal.

TV Makers Told to Tighten Safety Code

CHICAGO (UP)—A blue-ribbon coroner's jury, composed largely of electronic experts, has ruled that a major defect existed in the television set which electrocuted a young boy.

In ruling the death of Howard Erenstein, 5, accidental, the jury recommended that the television industry strengthen its "safety codes and practices."

Howard was killed July 14 in the kitchen of his Skokie, Ill., home. The jury said "the probability is very great that the deceased died of electrical shock from simultaneous contact with the television set and the grounded metal trim on the kitchen counter top."

The "lethal" defect occurred on the assembly line when a leakage of electricity was caused by the pinching of a 135-volt bus bar (a type of electrical circuit) between "the mounting bracket and the vertical holding-control," the experts said in their verdict.

Herbert Riegelman, general manager of the General Electric Co's television department in Syracuse, N.Y., said "we have been unable to determine how this (pinched wire) could have escaped our rigid factory tests." The "tragic and regrettable accident" was the first to happen in the manufacture of more than a million sets, he said.

Following the verdict, GE spokesmen said free electrical examinations would be made by distributors and dealers for owners of company - made portable TV-sets.

Damage to the television cabinet was unrelated to the "observed electrical defects," the jury said. Earlier there had been reports that the set was dropped and subsequently made lethal.

In handing down its verdict, the jury, composed of 10 scientists and electrical experts and three laymen, said "since many kinds of portable electrical appliances are being used in the American home in ever-increasing numbers . . . it is desirable that the safety codes and practices used by the industry be strengthened."

Federal Judge Rules Courts Have Right to Ban Pictures

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Courts possess the right to ban cameras in or near a courtroom during trials, a federal judge ruled Tuesday.

Judge Wallace S. Gourley said the right to ban pictures was justified in order to protect the "privacy" of the defendant.

Gourley turned down an injunction sought by two newspapers in a test case.

"If such a right should be yielded to an asserted privilege of the press, the authority and dignity of the courts would be seriously impaired," he said.

The injunction was sought by the Tribune Review Publishing Co., Greensburg, Pa., and the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. The test case emanated from the 1954 trial of John Wesley Wable, Pennsylvania Turnpike "phantom killer", who died in the electric chair for the slaying of a truck driver.

The two newspapers took pictures of Wable in Westmoreland County Court corridors after he was sentenced to die. The newspapers were cited for contempt of court since trial Judge Edward Bauer had banned the taking of photos anywhere in the courthouse.

Judge Gourley refused to quash the contempt order. The state Supreme Court previously had upheld fines of $100 to $500 against six newspaper officials and employes but dismissed five-day jail sentences.

The two newspapers had contended that freedom of the press, guaranteed under the Constitution, not only included printing but also the gathering of news.

"If the discretion of a judicial tribunal should be subordinated to that of the desires of the press or public, . . ." Judge Gourley said, "it would be difficult to limit the further reduction to which the authority of the courts would be exposed.".

He said picture taking in courtrooms "may prove an opening wedge to gradual deterioration of the judicial process."

After the Greensburg Tribune and the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette were cited for contempt, they sought a writ of prohibition in Federal Court. This also was rejected by Gourley at the time because the newspapers had not exhausted the state courts.

The newspapers may now appeal to the Third Circuit Court of Appeals at Philadelphia.

Senate Probers Call Union Officials

Set Stage For Dio's Testimony

By HERBERT FOSTER

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Rackets Committee called for expert testimony today on the crux of its New York hearings—the charge that James R. Hoffa, Teamster Union vice president, used Johnny Dio's underworld henchmen to rig a union election.

Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the committee planned to call 10 witnesses, most of them union officials connected with Dio. That would clear the way for Dio's scheduled appearance Thursday, he said.

The witnesses, Kennedy said, would be individuals who played a role in the battle for control of New York's Joint Council of Teamsters late in 1955.

The committee previously charged Hoffa obtained Teamster charters for a group of "paper" locals in New York merely to use their votes in that Teamster election. According to committee data, four of the largely memberless locals were staffed with officers from Dio-controlled locals of the AFL United Auto Workers Union.

Paul Claude, a Brooklyn, N.Y. machine shop owner who said he feared for his children's lives even as he testified, gave the committee a vivid picture Tuesday of how one Dio henchman allegedly operated.

Gives Vivid Picture

Claude, a nervous man with a furrowed, balding brow, testified that into his shop — Paragon Brass Products, Inc. — one day in 1954 walked Max Chester, a smallish, soft - spoken man with long, dark eyelashes.

Kennedy said Chester also has a long, dark record of nine arrests and six convictions including a recent labor bribery case involving his friend Dio, whose real name is John Dioguardi.

Chester announced he was organizing the shop's 15 employes, Claude testified, and for $2,000 would grant a contract the machine shop owner could "live with." Otherwise, the witness related, the contract would increase his costs $12,000 in three years and run him out of business.

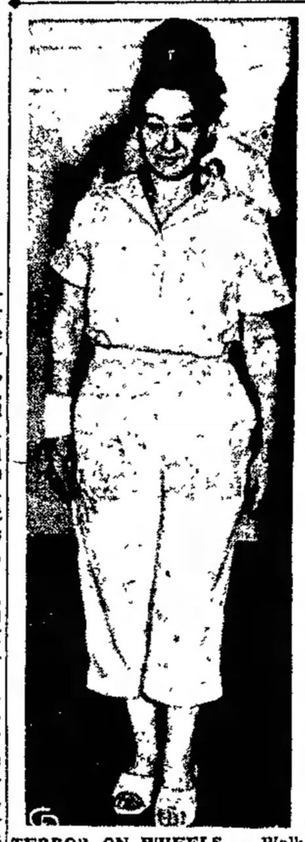
He said Chester told him his $2,000 offer amounted to a gift of $10,000 and Claude should be grateful.

Kind of Psychology

The nervous witness said the Dio henchman always inquired solicitously about his family's health and wasn't it a shame how easily his children could be run over by a car?

"He said how he loved his own children and how dangerous it is for children to play in the streets," Claude testified. "I was scared to death. It was a kind of psychology, and it worked on me. He never threatened."

Chester, called to the witness stand, invoked the Fifth Amendment, refusing to tell anything but his name. He refused even to admit his present abode is a New York jail cell where he awaits sentence along with Dio and Samuel Goldstein, an official of a New York Teamsters local. All three were convicted July 25 of exacting money from employers for labor peace.



TERROR ON WHEELS — Walking with a matron after being booked in Los Angeles on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, Mrs. Wilma Smallfield told officers, "You can't understand how much I love him." Police said she accused her husband, Robert, of pursuing other women. He fled in his 1957 car, but she intercepted him in her 1949 model, and repeatedly crashed her car into his, until he jumped clear and was rescued by two police officers.

Gloomy Warning From District Safety Council

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Western Pennsylvania Safety Council issued a gloomy warning today. It predicted eight persons will die on Western Pennsylvania highways over the three-day Labor Day weekend "unless a small percentage of motorists start using common highway sense."

The council, in its usual pre-holiday plea for safer driving, described the typical holiday traffic victim as a "male driver between 25 and 44."

"He is usually the only one killed in the crash," the council said. "The accident in which he dies happens between 6 p.m. and midnight—with the odds on 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.—on the night of the first full day of the holiday period.

"The accident is most likely to occur on a rural highway or in an unincorporated area, and the chances are high that the victim has been drinking.

that we are calling each case according to the facts, regardless of the political power of the people involved or their party affiliation," Leader said.

The governor said he "was told" Prep was a registered Republican but that politics played no part in the Frackville contractor's successful bidding for state business.

Editor Starts Things

The investigation was touched off by Peter Stevenson, city editor of the Lock Haven Express, who last Feb. 23 notified Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler the state was being short changed in the delivery of cinders in certain areas.

The cinder expose was the second of its type this year in the Highways Department. Earlier, five men, including three department employes, pleaded guilty to defrauding the state of $36,000 in a fictitious cinder scheme in Cambria County.

Gov. Leader said the investigation was continuing in 19 other counties where the Prep firm did business, although he added that "some" appeared to be in the clear. The counties include Cameron, Clinton, Cumberland, Berks, Bradford, Delaware, Elk, Franklin, Fulton, Lebanon, McKean, Monroe, Montgomery, Pike, Potter, Schuylkill, Susquehanna, Tioga and Union.

Leader said he could not speculate on possible fraud in the counties without "doing injury" to the investigation, but promised any irregularities in any county would be aggressively prosecuted.

Ike's Grin Proof First Lady Alright

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Eisenhower grin told the world the results of the First Lady's operation: She came through fine.

Mrs. Eisenhower underwent a two-hour internal operation by a gynecologist Tuesday to relieve a condition similar to a type that afflicts many women after they pass middle age.

The President paid her a late afternoon visit at Walter Reed Army Medical Center where he underwent a major abdominal operation last year.

He left the hospital grinning after spending 35 minutes with her. He was in an amiable mood.

When a reporter asked how the First Lady was, the President said: "I think she is sleeping."

Corrects Benign Condition

The 60-year-old First Lady was operated on by Col. Humbert L. Riva, a gynecologist in the Army Medical Corps. In surgery was performed between 8 and 10 a.m., e.d.t.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the surgery had been planned for some time. He said it was intended to correct a "benign, mild" condition," was "not an emergency" and involved "nothing malignant" or cancerous.

As though to underline the statement, the President kept his regular appointments during the day and went out on the south lawn of the White House to hit a number of practice golf drives shortly before going to the hospital.

Hospital Stay Unknown

Previously he had kept in close touch by telephone with the hospital while conferring with Republican congressional leaders and others.

Hagerty said he did not know how long the First Lady would be in the hospital. But he said he had talked to her physicians and he did not believe the operation would delay the start of the President's scheduled vacation at Newport, R.I.

Hagerty said earlier that he expected Eisenhower to remain in Washington until the adjournment of Congress — Now expected by GOP legislative leaders about Aug. 24.

Fishing License Increase Set For September 1

HARRISBURG (UP)—Resident fishing license fees will be increased to $3.25 Sept. 1 under an authorization granted by the 1957 Legislature.

A joint announcement by the state Revenue Department and the Fish Commission said the absence of an effective date in the legislative bill signed by Gov George M. Leader made it subject to the statute which sets Sept. 1 as the effective date of any legislation not otherwise specified.

Revenue Secretary Gerald A. Gleeson said new forms and instructions will be distributed to about 2,300 fishing license agents throughout the state within the next several days. Issuing agents will receive 15 cents instead of 10 cents for every license.

The 75 cent increase is earmarked for improvement of public fishing facilities.

William Voigt Jr., the commission's executive director, pointed out most of the licenses that will be purchased this year have already been sold "and the additional revenue will be relatively small."

Revenue Department officials said there was nothing to prohibit those about to reach the licensing age of 16 from purchasing their licenses prior to Sept. 1 at the present $2.50 fee.

Meanwhile, the commission reported that 8,438 large trout were caught by some of the 40,992 sportsmen who turned out for the nine-week season ending July 20 at "Fisherman's Paradise" along Spring Creek near Bellefonte. records set last year when 46,637

Both figures were below the anglers took 9,828 trout.

Buterbaugh had been a staff member of Indiana Hospital since its founding in 1914.

Says Confession In Sheppard Case Is Not True

CLEVELAND (UP)—His grandmother said today that Donald Joseph Wedler, 23, who "confessed" to attacking a woman on the same date Marilyn Sheppard was murdered, never had been in this city.

In a special dispatch from Winchester, Va., the Cleveland Press quoted the unidentified woman as saying she had unsuccessfully sought psychiatric treatment for Wedler, whom she helped to rear. The Press said the woman's name was not used because she was suffering from a heart condition.

The dispatch said the woman had reported all she knew about her grandson to mystery writer Erle Stanley Gardner, whose unofficial "Court of Last Resort" has concerned itself with the Sheppard case.

"And Mr. Gardner told me he didn't think it (the confession) was true, either," the woman said.

Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, husband of the slain woman, is serving a life term in Ohio Penitentiary on a second degree murder conviction.

Wedler, after verbally confessing to Florida officials, signed a confession for Cleveland attorney William J. Corrigan, chief defense counsel for Dr. Sheppard. Corrigan today said he and his assistants in the case are considering how to use this document to win freedom for the imprisoned osteopath.

Immediately after Wedler confessed, two local authorities questioned him and discounted the 26th "confession" to the July 4, 1954 bludgeon slaying.

Approve Plans For Sand Washery

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Sanitary Water Board has issued a permit approving plans for a sand washery for treatment of waste at the Mahoning Valley Sand Co., North Beaver Twp., Lawrence County.

The washery, located along the Beaver River, prevents about 100 tons of silt from reaching the stream daily.

Administration Begins Work on New Civil Rights Compromise

WASHINGTON (UP) — Administration lawyers today worked on a new compromise to the civil rights bill.

The Republicans sought to find a way to limit the bill's jury trial amendment so it would be acceptable both to the House and Senate and President Eisenhower.

The Senate prepared to pass the amended civil rights bill either by tonight or Thursday. But it faced an uncertain fate in the House.

Administration sources said the President would veto the bill if the jury trial amendment remains in its present form. Both Republicans and Democrats indicated it may be possible to reach a compromise in a House-Senate conference committee.

The jury trial amendment at present would guarantee jury trials in all criminal contempt cases against violators of federal court injunctions. Republicans indicated they would accept as a minimum compromise limiting the amendment only to federal injunctions involving voting rights.

Other congressional news:

Atomic: The house Rules Committee called a meeting to decide whether to send to the House floor in its present form legislation authorizing a $259,230,000 atomic energy program. Center of a fight over the bill is a 58 million dollar reactor program written into the bill by the joint congressional Atomic Energy Committee, over GOP protests.

Academy: The House tentatively stripped the new Air Force Academy of money to build an airfield and an aluminum chapel. Congressmen said the academy didn't need the airfield because it doesn't give cadets flight training there. Critics of the chapel called it a "monstrosity . . . revolting . . . a series of tepees."

Jayne: Bosomy movie star Jayne Mansfield dropped by the U.S. Capitol to say hello to congressmen—particularly her fellow Texans. She said it was wonderful to see congressmen "in their native habitat."

DOG HERO OF YEAR — Blaze, winner of the 1957 medal as the most heroic dog of the year, is shown with his mistress, Dawn Hecox, 3, of Timewell, Ill., whom he saved from an enraged sow on the Hecox farm. When the collie came to the rescue, the child had been so badly bitten that she was hospitalized for three weeks. Blaze will receive a $1,000 U. S. Savings Bond and other prizes in Chicago, Aug. 14.

Among Arabian gifts to European medieval society were the art of fortification, knightly tournaments and the troubadour.

Warehouse Fire Ruins Newsprint

CLEVELAND (UP)—A warehouse fire today destroyed $300,000 worth of newsprint.

The fire burned the interior of one warehouse and spread to another. The warehouses are leased to the Greeley-General Warehouse Co. and its subsidiary, the Cleveland Terminal Warehouse Co., by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Most of the newsprint destroyed belonged to the Forest City Publishing Co., which publishes the Cleveland Plain Dealer and the Cleveland News. Other newsprint was the property of the Pittsburgh Press, the Toledo Blade, and Buffalo Evening News.

Smoke from the fire was visible over a large part of the downtown area. Firemen battled the blaze with 16 pieces of equipment.

Pre-launching operation. The 3,750,000 cubic foot balloon can carry the rocket to 100,000 feet.

AIM FOR ROCKET TO ZOOM THOUSANDS OF MILES HIGH

THESE DRAWINGS illustrate a solid-propellant rocket designed to whoosh thousands of miles high for study of what gives up there. Aeronutronic Systems, Inc., a subsidiary of Ford Motor company, is building it for USAF's "Operation Far Side." It is being designed for speed of over 17,000 mph, will weigh 1,900 pounds, and will carry a 3½-pound instrument package. The rocket actually will be a 10-rocket, four-stage combination.

At 100,000 feet, balloon is fully inflated to 200-foot diameter. Then the rocket series takes over and the apparatus shoots up right through the balloon. Top drawing shows first-stage rockets separating.

Kiwanis Picnic Staged

Members of the Monessen Kiwanis Club entertained their families last night at a picnic in City Park. The affair replaced the usual dinner meeting held each two weeks by the club.

The picnic dinner was prepared by Mrs. Anna Jurnak and the kitchen staff from the Slovak Home.

There were games and contests for the children and adults. Charles Penwick was the winner of a hole in one contest.

Four members of the Blairsville Kiwanis were guests.

On Aug. 20 the Kiwanians will entertain their sons at dinner and a trip to Forbes Field to see the Pittsburgh Pirates play the Milwaukee Braves. The trip will be made by chartered bus.

The local club is in the process of planning a President's Night to honor President Charles Penwick for his service to the organization. Arrangements are also being made for delegates to attend the Pennsylvania District Convention in Pittsburgh in October.

District Jehovah Witnesses to Attend Convention

Angelo Galuppo, minister of the Jehovah's witnesses congregation in Monessen, will head a delegation of 50 witnesses to the sect's annual convention in Baltimore, Md., Aug. 21-25.

The convention is sponsored by the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of Brooklyn, N. Y. Some 40,000 persons are expected.

The convention is being held, Mr. Galuppo said, to "provide additional Bible instruction for witnesses and to enable them to apply Bible principles more fully to their every-day lives and activities."

Highlight of the convention will be an address at 3 p. m. on Sunday, Aug. 25, by Nathan H. Knorr, Society president.

Fire Employes At Ohio Plant

CLARINGTON, Ohio (UP)—The firing of 395 employes climaxed a brief sit-down strike at the Olin Mathieson aluminum plant here Tuesday.

The Pierce Electrical Co., a subcontractor on the plant construction job, notified the men shortly after they had stopped work that they were dismissed.

The workers, all members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, were paid off at the end of working day.

Although no comment was forthcoming from either the company or union, it was believed the dispute stemmed from the discharge of a shop steward Monday.

The wholesale firing was biggest in recent years in the Ohio Valley. It came during another in a series of work stoppages and walkouts which have slowed construction of the huge aluminum plant on which work was started 18 months ago.

All disabled veterans are urged to attend.

Continuing Drought May Force State Farmers to Seek Help

By UNITED PRESS

Pennsylvania's seared and parched southeastern farmlands today wilted under the continuing lack of moisture which is forcing farmers in the area to seek government aid.

Although conditions in the western part of the state improved after fairly heavy rains last week end, eastern and southern sections continued to suffer under one of the worst droughts in recent years.

(District farmlands have been spared from serious damage, according to Westmoreland County Farm Agent Joseph Thurston. Drenching rains fell last week, particularly in Rostraver Twp.)

Farmers in Chester, Montgomery and Bucks counties have voted to ask the federal or state government for financial relief because of heavy losses sustained in corn, hay, peach, apple and potato crops. The state Agriculture Department said Berks County growers are considering a like appeal.

The department dispatched seven crop reporting specialists into the field today to survey drought damage. They were assigned principally to southeastern areas but will cover as far north as Luzerne County.

Corn Crops Down

Sweet corn crops in southeastern counties are only 75 per cent of normal. Potato harvesting was begun in southern counties but the size and quality is poor because of the extremely dry weather.

Meanwhile, the effects of the lack of rain also was beginning to affect other parts of the state's economy. The Forest and Waters Department reported that most of the state's timberlands are a tinderbox with the possibility of major forest fires only as far removed as the first carelessly tossed match or cigarette.

Water supplies in some communities are dwindling rapidly and in at least one case pose a major problem. Middletown slapped tight water controls on its residents and banned use for anything but sanitation, drinking ad cooking. Officials said the borough's water supply is "at the critical level."

Rivers Low

River flows in many areas are extremely low. At Harrisburg the level of the Susquehanna River dropped to below three feet—lowest since August, 1955. Low levels also applied to the Schuylkill and Lehigh rivers in eastern Pennsylvania.

Forecasts of the U.S. Weather Bureau at Harrisburg indicated any relief for southern and eastern sections of the state in the next few days will be of a strictly temporary nature. The five day forecast predicted "generally dry" weather with the possibility of some scattered showers in southern areas by Sunday.

Investigators Hit Cage Sport In Next Step

WASHINGTON (UP) — Professional basketball today came under the scrutiny of House anti-trust investigators winding up a seven-week inquiry into professional team sports.

Maurice Podoloff, president of the National Basketball Association, was called as the first witness before a House anti-trust subcommittee headed by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.).

Three players were scheduled to testify—Easy Ed Macauley and Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks and Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics.

The subcommittee planned to complete basketball testimony today and finish its hearings, which began June 17, with a one-day session on hockey Thursday. Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, will testify Thursday.

The investigation is an outgrowth of a Supreme Court decision last Feb. 25 holding pro football subject to anti-trust laws. The court previously ruled baseball exempt from the laws.

McSorley's Son Arrested at Game

PITTSBURGH (UP) — George Franklin McSorley Jr., 20, son of suspended Turnpike Commissioner G. Franklin McSorley, was arrested Tuesday night while attending the Pirates - Phillies game at Forbes Field.

He was released on $1,000 bond pending a hearing in Morals Court Friday on a burglary charge. Police accused him with the theft of a purse containing $55 from a woman's apartment last Wednesday night.

Early Monday, young McSorley was arrested on a prowling charge after he was caught in the back yard of the home of E.E. Moore, a U.S. Steel Corp. executive. The charge later was dismissed

Brief Uprising At Reformatory

MANSFIELD, Ohio (UP)—An uneasy calm hung over the Mansfield Reformatory for men where 50 inmates staged a demonstration against the food.

The brief uprising happened shortly after noon Tuesday.

A "beefed-up" guard staff remained on duty throughout the night and were joined by 17 state highway patrolmen. Authorities said they didn't expect any further trouble.

Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke said the demonstration amounted to just a little more "than some shouting." The men returned to their cells after Glattke listened to their complaints about the food.

All 2,400 of the prisoners were locked in their cells and were taken to the evening meal 200 at a time.

State officials, who rushed to the prison, said they would stay throughout today or "until we're sure there will be no trouble.

Bi-partisan Effort Is Called for NOMINATION by the Democrats of Westmoreland County of three boss-ridden candidates for judge calls for some formal coalition of independent forces to support the Republican candidates as the only chance for this county to have a respected common pleas court during the next ten years.

It seldom happens in politics that issues are presented thus sharply in black and white. In normal circumstances a plausible case can be made on both sides of a political contest, and the thoughtful voter makes his decisions on the basis of the variables as he happens to view them.

But that is not the case in this unprecedented situation in Westmoreland County. The issue is presented boldly in black and white. The choice is between good government and rotten government. The outcome will determine whether this county has a court whose judges are free to serve the cause of justice under the law or whether it has a court composed of political hacks under impossible obligations to a courthouse machine.

* * *

FROM the standpoint of the independent voter it is unfortunate that the acceptable candidates are all Republicans and the hacks are all Democrats. While party affiliations should not be a factor in the choice of judges, it would be preferable, in our view, to have some balance on the county court as between the political parties.

But the gang which has taken possession of the Democratic party in Westmoreland County has made that impossible. Rejecting all the competent and respected Democratic attorneys in the county — and there are many such — it has brazenly nominated three candidates whose only claim to judicial office is complete subservience to the dictates of the machine bosses.

All three of these candidates — Judge Bauer, District Attorney Sculco and David H. Weiss — were hatched in the same political nest. All have served in the district attorney's office during the period when its laxity has brought humiliation to the people of Westmoreland County. Although under solemn oath to uphold the law, all three have been silent and impotent for years while known criminals have violated the law systematically for profit and political goons have cheated the people on election day.

The only practical alternative to the election of such judges is the election of the three Republican candidates — Robert H. Rial, Avra N. Pershing Jr. and Willis E. Topper.

* * *

YET this important task cannot be entrusted entirely to the weak and ineffective Republican organization of Westmoreland County. In a straight party contest, the Republican organization would be no match for the well-heeled, politically skillful and ruthless courthouse machine and its army of payroll hirelings.

The situation plainly calls for strenuous bipartisan effort in behalf of the Republican judicial ticket. The means must be created which will enable all the friends of decent government, regardless of party preference, to make common cause. When the competence, integrity and independence of our courts are at stake, party lines lose their meaning.

The time grows short. Action should be taken at once to weld a coalition of independent-thinking citizens to support the candidacies of Rial, Pershing and Topper.

Good Luck, Gus!

SWIMMING across the English Channel isn't our idea of either a novel or constructive enterprise. It's been done many times by people of both sexes and varied ages, and to do it just once more doesn't seem to us to add very much to the sum of human achievement.

But we hope Gus Brickner, the Monongahela Valley's polar bear, makes it, anyway, only because such persistence seems to deserve success.

Gus has said for years that he has wanted to swim the Channel more than he has wanted to do anything else in his life. And he has matched his ambition with a diligence which has often seemed excruciating, not to say a little senseless. More than once he has cracked the ice on the river in dead winter to make sure of his daily dip.

At this writing, Gus is waiting on the French coast for the right winds and tide. And while we may not be quite sure what he's trying to prove, his Valley neighbors will be hoping he makes it.

Behind The News—

Economic Crisis Hits France

By GEORGE SIBERA

PARIS (UP)—France today is facing her worst economic crisis since the bleak days when she was digging herself out of the havoc of World War II.

After years of carefree spending, Frenchmen have awakened to a fact of life—no individual or nation can spend more than is earned.

The awakening has been as sudden as it was brutal. The reason is simple. For many months past, government after government has tried to keep the unpleasant truth hidden. In May, it began to come to light and there was a fury of recrimination between right and leftist parties.

But it couldn't do away with the facts that the new premier, radical Maurice Bourges - Maunoury, has now to wrestle with.

1. France has been living beyond her means since 1945. No post - war government kept the deficit down to manageable proportions.

U. S. Aid Helped

2. Until 1954, aid from the United States tided the nation over.

3. This aid no longer exists. But, as new Finance Minister Felix Gaillard put it, the past governments acted as if Uncle Sam still was doling out millions to finance reconstruction, modernization and rearmament.

The deficit in 1955 was 660 billion francs — $1,868,000,000. Last year it skyrocketed to 1,500 billion francs — more than 4 billion dollars.

A strange accompaniment has been that the gross national product, the total of all goods and services produced, increased 20 per cent since 1955 but that was pitifully small in view of the budget deficit.

The Algerian war is one of the main culprits. It costs France almost three million dollars a day. It has drained 450,000 soldiers to Algeria and put a severe load on a working population of only 12 million out of a total population of 43 million.

Offer Higher Wages

Employers are offering higher salaries in many trades to lure workers. There has been a buying spree on the home market, with wages up and many prices frozen, and this had led to import of more and more goods.

At the same time, no serious effort was made to compete on foreign markets.

Now Finance Minister Gaillard has instituted a drastic cut in the budget. It will be around 15 billion dollars instead oft he planned 17 billion. The cuts will hit every department including the army.

He has ordered an end to road building and on many construction projects. And the French had a foretaste of the taxes to be imposed when the government last week put an increased sales taxes on 24 categories of goods ranging from household appliances to motor boats.

Merry-Go-Round—

How Johnson Worked 'Miracle'

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It's the unanimous opinion of Senate observers that passage of the jury trial amendment and the civil rights bill without a filibuster can be attributed solely to Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas. They also agree that his backstage maneuvering was sheer genius and that he should go down as the greatest political general of all time.

Mr. Pearson

There is no unanimity of opinion, however, on whether the bill, as amended, was good for the United States, good for General Motors, or even good for Lyndon Johnson.

Probably it won't be good for Lyndon Johnson, because what he wanted most of all was to keep civil rights out of the 1958 election debate, and it now appears certain that Republicans in the House or Eisenhower in the White House will block the bill, and it will be thrown into the 1958 maelstrom with a vengeance.

Probably it will be good for General Motors, because under the new bill General Motors would not have to worry too much about the court decree ordering it and Du Pont to separate. It could ignore a court order and take its chances with a jury.

Probably it won't be good for the country, because trial by jury will weaken and perhaps make unenforceable such important laws as the Pure Food and Drug Act, the antitrust laws, the Minimum Wage Act, the David-Bacon Act, the Walsh-Healy Act, and approximately 50 laws which are enforced by court orders. These court orders can now be sidetracked by trial by jury.

However, let's leave to the lawyers the question of whether abolition of our age-old system of court orders should or should not be wiped out. Instead, let's take a backstage look at how Lyndon Johnson accomplished his political miracle.

God and Johnson

"No one except the Lord and Lyndon is sure exactly how he accomplished it," said one senator just after adoption of the jury trial amendment.

This reporter pretends to have no divine power of perception. But here are some of the techniques by which Lyndon accomplished the miracle — thereby perhaps outsmarting himself.

Simple Techniques — Some of his techniques were quite simple. He kept rootin', tootin' professional southerners in the background. He kept moderate liberals and middle-of-the-roaders out in front. When he heard that Jim Eastland of Mississippi was about to make a speech he went to Byrd of Virginia and Russell of Georgia and shut Eastland up. He had O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Church of Idaho, and Kefauver of Tennessee carry the ball on amendment.

Young Church, baby of the Senate, made his two amendments with careful coaching. When Bobby Baker, secretary of the Senate Democrats, sometimes called "Lyndon, Jr.," went over to him on the Senate floor, Church rose and introduced the amendments putting Negroes on juries and extending jury trials to all criminal contempt cases. It was Church who made the speech, but it was the hand of Johnson that gave the cues.

Counter-intelligence Techniques—Johnson knew what was going on inside Republican ranks. He knew how some administration senators were kicking over the traces. When GOP senators held a secret caucus and Hickenlooper of Iowa complained that the civil rights bill trampled on the rights of white people, Lyndon knew it. He also knew that Senator Dirksen of Illinois complained that the administration had ample power to enforce the voting rights of Negroes without passing a bill. He also knew that only two Republican senators — Javits (N.Y.) and Case (N.J.) — defended the bill in caucus.

Quicker - than - the - eye - techniques — Lyndon also practiced some mysterious techniques that few people knew about. For more than a week before, he was holding the short end of every straw poll. GOP Leader Knowland had 38 Republican votes in his pocket. Senator Douglas of Illinois, leader of Northern Democrats, had nine Democratic votes.

This was why Johnson began stalling for time, asked the Senate to consider important pending bills and appropriations. He knew if the vote was held then, he was licked.

But one night before the crucial roll-call, Lyndon and Sen. Dick Russell, leader of the southern forces, huddled in the Senate cloakroom.

"I am ready to vote," reported Russell. "We've got 50 votes."

Though Russell did the reporting, it was Johnson who had won over the votes.

On the final roll-call, Russell and Johnson did one better. They got 51. Senator Douglas came through with his nine liberals against them. They stood firm against the jury trial amendment. But the Republicans didn't. Lyndon had pickpocketed five Republican votes from Knowland. He virtually took them out of the GOP leader's pocket and Knowland didn't know it until it was too late.

How did Johnson do it? The story requires more space and will be told tomorrow.

Merry-Go-Round

When the crucial civil rights voting was over, Sen. Dick Neuberger of Oregon remarked to Johnson's assistant, Bobby Baker: "That was the greatest Little Red Riding Hood act I have ever seen. Lyndon kept Eastland and Stennis in the wings and Kefauver, Church, and O'Mahoney before the footlights. All you could see was the bosom, not the fangs." . . . One thing that influenced Sen. Frank Church to propose his two jury trial amendments was the reading of speeches by the late Sen. William Borah, also of Idaho, who, during debates on the Norris-La Guardia Act, favored trial by jury in labor injunction cases. Borah is revered as the greatest of Idaho senators. Any young senator would want to follow in his footsteps.

Name It, and Some Tot Will Swallow It

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Just name it, and a child will swallow it.

As a result, each year 500 children under the age of five die from household poisoning; untold numbers more suffer injury, and often permanent disabling.

In an effort to prevent this loss of life or injury, 32 poison control centers today operate in various cities around the nation. One of the first centers, and a pattern for many of the others, is the one operating as part of New York City's Health Department.

Gay Pauley

It was founded at the request of local medical societies who wanted an information clearing house; a place where parents, doctors and hospitals could get speedy information on the chemical content, and the danger involved, when junior ate or drank something not meant for a small tummy.

Director of the New York center is Dr. Harold Jacobziner, assistant health commissioner; chief chemist and technical director is Harry Rayburn.

Danger of Pneumonia

"Some of the items dangerous to a child aren't poisons in the true sense," Rayburn explained. "But they still can be fatal." He explained that anything containing the petroleum oils was risky because if a child got any in his lungs, there was danger of irritation and pneumonia.

Talk to these two men and you wonder why the death toll annually isn't above their figure of 500. They have records of children gulping everything from heavy amounts of whisky (the child died) to a bottle of perfume (the child recovered).

The New York center handles an average of 500 cases a month. Most frequent calls ask for advice on a dose of aspirin or household bleach, Rayburn said. But lead poisoning is the one which worries the center the most, because it so frequently is fatal.

"It kills more children than polio in this city," said the medical director. "Eight deaths already this year."

Jacobziner said most paint manufacturers now use only a minute —and safe—amount of lead in paints.

Just From Chewing

"But the old coats underneath can kill. . .just from a child chewing on a window sill or eating painted plaster," said Jacobziner.

Rayburn said other potentially dangerous items which find their way into children's stomachs include insecticides, detergents, shoe polish, lighter fluid, the caustics such as lye, furniture polish, turpentine, liniments, drugs meant for grown-ups only, kerosene, machine oil, solvents, and even those liquids which are meant for blowing bubbles.

"Our advice to parents is—if it isn't food, keep it away from the children," said Rayburn.

The center's emergency work is not without its lighter side. One of its steadiest customers is the mother of a small boy, who has a knack for eating the wrong thing. His latest "diet"—the interior of one of those snow-scene paper weights. The center said the contents were harmless.

The Lighter Side—

'Smelly' Newspapers To Create Problems

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP) —The gladsome word wafts eastward from California that before long you'll be able to smell your newspaper as well as see and feel it. Fragrant reading may soon brighten our lives. That phrase "a nose for news" may come suddenly alive.

The report from the Printing Industries Assn., Inc., in Los Angeles alleges that new discoveries in the use of fragrance in printing will make it possible to put more than 120 aromas on paper.

The report mentions such delicate fragrances as fried chicken and pizza as possible appetite stimulants in your family newspaper. Among other nose-picklers available (and fit) to print are country smoke, fresh-cut grass, blackstrap molasses, butterscotch, pickles, apple pie, coffee, tea, and chocolate.

Unlimited Possibilities

A spokesman said that soon any newspaper, trade publication, or consumer magazine could have its own identifiable odor—and he obligingly suggested pine or woodsmoke for men's magazines, perfume for fashion publications, and new-mown hay for farm journals.

Well, now, wait a minute. Let's be careful. Who wants to open a paper at the breakfast table and suddenly be struck full in the nostrils by the combined whiffery of toothpaste, paint, corned beef and cabbage, and possibly the odor of stale cigar smoke from a column devoted to politics and a sweaty smell from the sports section?

That's what could happen if the family newspaper showed a bit of imagination in livening up the smell of its advertisements and news.

We could be in danger of becoming sort of a captive audience when we take up the paper. You can always avert your eyes from any news column or advertisement if you want to. But you can hardly avert your nose from an odor. The solution might be to have the smells sectionalized and localized.

Thus, the travel section could be redolent of the sea, of soft flowers of the tropics, of leather valises. The food pages could reek groceries, the perfume ads their own sharp stinks, and the cigarette ads an odor so mild and filtered you couldn't smell anything at all.

TV Can't Touch

This whole thing is something that television just can't match, although in all candor it must be conceded that some areas of TV have had a scent all their own for some time.

There could be some complications. For instance, in wrapping a bit of newspaper about your lunch to take to work, it would be wise not to get a garlic or limburger ad next to your angel food cake. And there is no telling how irate countless canary birds might get to find their cage bottoms carpeted with, say, perfume ads exuding powerful essence of "Whoops!" or "Midsummer Madness No. 5."

There will be, I submit, possibilities for public service in smells. The stock market pages, for instance. They could have a smelling - salts section for anyone who may feel suddenly faint.

A 'Battle' of Steel

By PETER HAYES

OAKLAND, Calif. (UP)—American and Russian engineers are pitting their industrial know - how against one another on the plains of India this summer in a unique battle whose key is the making of steel.

At stake is whether Soviet or American workmen in private rather than socialized ownership can step up faster the yearly steel output of "neutralist" India. Its 400 million population will watch the outcome closely.

The engineers division of the Henry J. Kaiser Co. of Oakland is carrying the ball for the American side. It has contracted with the privately owned Tata Iron & Steel Co. to increase capacity at the Jamshedpur mills from 1,300,000 to 2,000,000 tons annually.

Russians Also Building

The Russians meanwhile are working to complete a 1,000,000-ton integrated plant at Bhilai in central India. Observers say the Soviets are going all out to build an ultra- modern 234 million dollar plant in record time—1959 the deadline.

Meanwhile some 100 Kaiser engineers are about halfway through expanding the Tata plant, with next May 31 the target date for completion.

The Tata mills, some 125 miles northeast of Calcutta, were founded early in the century with American assistance and the industrial city that sprang up has become known as the "Pittsburgh" of India.

India has also signed agreements with Britain and Germany for steel mills and subsidiary contracts with some two dozen nations on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Kaiser Has Free Hand

Tata has given Kaiser virtually a free hand in expanding its plant. The California firm has placed orders totaling more than 78 million dollars for rolling mills from Germany, cranes from Japan, electrical gear from the United States and Switzerland and boiler equipment and coke from England.

More than 100 ships have been used to date to bring the equipment to Calcutta. An indication of the confidence of both Tata and Kaiser that the 30-month construction schedule will be met, is the absence of penalty or bonus clauses in the agreement.

Most of the Kaiser technicians brought their families with them. They live in a two million dollar community known as "Kaiser Kolony." Its 100 air-conditioned bungalows designed by an Indian student of Frank Lloyd Wright.

Minor Variations in HS Grid Rules

Most of the football rules changes for 1957 are minor variations but there are several new regulations which bear repeating such as: 1. Forbidding a player from grasping an opponent's face protector. 2. Banning of movements of any part of the body by inside lineman as a means of drawing the opposing team offside . . . Incidentally, all registered PIAA officials must attend at least one of the rules explanation meetings carded by the PIAA. Closest confabs to this area are the August 19 and 20 meetings at Johnstown and Pittsburgh, respectively. Examinations for prospective Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association officials will be held (for this district) at Connellsville High School or Allegheny High School at 7:30 o'clock, Thursday, Sept. 26.

We like the comment of Coach Walt Kiesling of the Steelers' on trading possibilities in the National Pro League. Says Walt, "In this league, everyone will trade you a lemon for an orange but no one wants to trade an orange for an orange." . . . Speaking of the Steelers, that was a pleasant bit of news about Johnny Lattner, the ex-Notre Dame All-Everything back, secretly testing his knee and so far so good . . . Congratulations are in order for the members of the Charleroi Archery Club who represented this district in the recent Southwestern Pennsylvania Archery Championships at Berlin with five local bowmen placing in the meet. Jay Peake, of Charleroi, who also spends considerable time with relatives in Belle Vernon, finished second to defending state champion Gerald Walker.

The election will be made at halftime of the game between the West Penn and Allegheny County All-Stars with Miss Hawaii, Sandra Lei Forsythe of Honolulu, doing the actual crowning. Miss Hawaii will compete in the Miss America contest later this year . . . Carl Crawley, Greyhound backfield star for three years, will be a member of the West Penn squad. Just how close football is to completely taking over the sports scene can be proven by the announcement that the first 1957 game will be on TV Friday night. Petty Going Great — Fans 17 Batters

Bob Petty, former MHS hurling standout, fanned 17 enemy batters in his latest start for Bluefield, Va. Gave up five hits and walked only five. Only exceptional hurling by his opponent Mankovitch of Kingsport prevented a runaway instead of the close 3-2 for Petty . . . Brownsville's Andy Sepsi is coming in for nearly as much build-up publicity at Pitt as did the fabulous Marshall Goldberg in the late 30s. A recent story says Sepsi is expected to be one of the Panthers' best backs since Goldberg. Coach Johnny Michelosen is a little more conservative, he says — "Sepsi's some ball player." After last year's Wigwam Wisemen grid tilt in Memphis a southern coach called Sepsi, "the best high school back in the country."

Today's Sports Parade—

Minor League Baseball Far From Dead; Not Sick

By CARL LUNDQUIST

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP)—Minor league baseball isn't dead. It isn't dying. It isn't even sick. It runs a little temperature when the fans get heated up at the umpires and there are some summer sniffles around because it was cold and rainy for quite a while this season.

Wet feet we have maybe. Cold feet never.

Lest this sound like the essay of a man whistling cheerily while awaiting the gnash of the guillotine against his jolly neck, pause with us a moment and look at some facts.

First, more people have attended baseball games at the minor league level this season than last. That's an irrefutable fact. A total of 6,979,560 at the mid - season mark as against 6,921,391 for the corresponding period a year ago. That also is more people than have attended games at the major league level this year in spite of those mad, mad pennant races up there.

Like Mechanized Dancers

Out along the Pacific Coast, despite the daily chit-chat at the watering troughs about the Dodgers and Giants moving in next season, the turnstiles are whirling like mechanized cha-cha dancers. You can't escape the thought that perhaps the fans like that PCL brand of baseball so well they are turning out in droves while they still have a chace to see it.

Other leagues, more than half of the 28 operating in the national association, show increased attendance figures. In the far-flung international loop where the cities stretch from Canada to Cuba and score cards are printed in Spanish, French, and English, there is another attendance boom. Cities like Buffalo and Richmond may set all - time records.

Moreover, national association players are spanning new frontiers, extending the game to a year - around basis with ever-expanding winter league operations. This coming season 10 winter leagues will operate with a new one in Nicaragua on the tabasco trail that previously included Cuba, Puerto Rico, Dominican Republic, Venezuela Caracas, Venezuela Maracaibo, Colombia, Panama, Mexico, and the Pacific Coast of Mexico.

Ozarks' Pezelle in Two-Hitter, Loses

Errors Spell 2 - 1 Defeat; 4th-Place Tie Still Exists

Bruce Pezzelle hurled a brilliant game for the Monessen Ozarks last ngiht but dropped a 2-1 heart-breaker to Perryopolis. Fortunately both Donora and New Eagle also dropped decisions yesterday, leaving the local still tied for fourth with those two entries.

Pezzelle hurled a two-hitter at the Ozarks but loose defensive play spelled defeat as miscues allowed both Perry runs.

Stan Burkholder and Pezzelle locked in a scoreless duel for three innings but finally the Ozarks broke the ice in the fourth when Neil Hill, continuing his brilliant hitting of late doubled home Bob Mastracci who had bunted and was safe on a fielder's choice.

The locals held their 1-0 lead until the bottom of the fifth when Herman Sams doubled after Davis had walked to put runners on second and third. Havadich then blasted the ball of Pappy Johnson's glove for an error to allow Davis to score. The ball rolled the outfield and another miscue was charged to the locals when Mike Young couldn't pick up the ball in the grass and Sams scored from second.

Monessen loaded the sacks in the sixth but Burkholder got Rotheran on a strikeout and Mike Kunsa to out, pitcher to first, to end the game.

Monessen had three doubles credited to them but couldn't make them count with Hill, Frank Valla and Young hitting for two bases.

Both managers praised the umpring in last night's tilt.

The Ozarks are idle until an important test at New Eagle tomorrow night, the game being changed from here tonight.

Big Five Stays Big Five

Redstone Issue Is Explained

Principals of the new Big Five Conference comprising Monessen, Charleroi, Brownsville, Donora and Monongahela met with Monongahela Valley sportswriters at Johnson's Restaurant here last night to explain the new conference constitution and program.

One of the most interesting items covered at the meeting, however, was the explanation by the principals as to why Redstone High School, formerly a member of the now disbanded Big Six Conference, was not a member of the new group.

Reasons Advanced

In answer to questions by the writers the school heads advanced the following reasons for the ommission of the 'Hawks. 1. Lack of interest on the part of Redstone; 2. A negative vote on Redstone's entry application and 3. Failure of Redstone to inform the new group as to their intentions at an early date.

The lack of interest was explained by pointing out that Redstone officials did not attend the initial meeting nor a second meeting. (Redstone officials acknowleged the first invitation and feal a just reason was given for not attending but 'deny receiving a second "invite."

A spokesman for the principals of the Big Five Conference said, "We gave Redstone every consideration by voting on them even without an invitation to them to join which the new constitution states must be done."

A Redstone delegation was at the restaurant last night but not at the meeting session having received no invitation. Instead the delegation headed by Principal A. Zigwalt and School Board President Joe Mazurek stated "they heard of the meeting and came to get a reason for Redstone's ommission."

Redstone Spokesman Heard

Following the three-hour meeting word was sent to the Redstone group that the principals would speak to Zigwalt but he had departed so Mazurek was delegated to speak with the school heads in private session. It was understood no action would be taken on Redstone this season but the door was left open for future negotiations on entry.

The principals discussed the new constitution in full with the writers and assured the scribes the Big Six Banquet and All-Star teams were still their (the writers) "babies."

Present last night were principals Henry Furio of Monessen, John Conte of Monongahela, Edwin Luse, Charleroi, Dr. Michael Herk, Donora, and Wade Whitlach, Brownsville. Writers present were Floyd Fance, editor of the Monongahela newspaper and founder of the original Big Six Conference, Johnny Bunardzya of Charleroi; Bob Petrello of Brownsville, Harry Rosenburg of Donora and Clair Brown of Monessen.

CIO Wins '57 Local Little League Title

Monessen's 1957 Little League champions are the CIO nine, who won that honor with a 10-3 victory over the VFW nine entry last night, the second win in the three-game series for the Unionmen to clinch the title.

CIO had previously won the National Division crown, VFW the American Division honor.

Buster Karenchak was the hero in yesterdays win for the CIOers as he accounted for four of the runs with a one-run homer in the fourth and a round-tripper good for three runs in the fifth. Six more CIO markers crossed the plate in the sixth on six hits and two walks.

The Vets' three runs came in the sixth on a bases loaded single by Billy Shepler.

Nuzzaci was brilliant on the mound for the winners as he allowed only five hits, fanned 12 and walked only two batters.

Other extra base hitters in addition to Karenchak were John Tobar, Terry Delrosso and Adam Cavrak of CIO and Douglas Crusan of VFW.

Myron Cieply hurled for VFW striking out five, walking four, being relieved by James Beeler in the sixth.

Craft's Debut As KC Pilot Proves Success

CHICAGO (UP) — Harry Craft took over the Kansas City Athletics today, encouraged by the club's first win in eight games, and determined to inject more speed into the team.

(Craft formerly played for Monessen in the old Penn State League).

Craft's debut as manager, coming less than eight hours after he replaced Lou Boudreau, was a 3-2 success against the Chicago White Sox.

The husky 42-year-old Craft, a Kansas City coach since 1955, took a dim view of the A's immediate prospects, but he said he expected to better the club's last - place status before the curtain goes down on the current campaign.

And he was chipper about future prospects.

"We've got some good youngsters coming that we can look at in September," he said regarding the A's outlook.

For the present, Craft said he has two remedies in mind. As a "great believer" in the hit-and-run strategy, he plans to emphasize that. Also his immediate plans call for putting veteran reliefer Virgil Trucks back into the bullpen.

Trucks has been used in a starting role recently but Craft said he believes Trucks is more effective in relief.

"We're going to try more hit-and-run moves than we have in the past," he said.

"Of course," he added with a smile, "I hope it works out better. Usually we bogged down in that department because of a lack of speed and we would up trying to catch the other team."

Meanwhile, Lou Boudreau, whom Craft replaced as manager Tuesday, said he was still mulling over an offer to accept a front-office job calling for unspecified duties with the Athletics.

Hallers Cop Two In CSL

It was grand night for Italian Hall in the City Softball League last night as two more victories were chalked up for the Hallers.

First of all they rallied to win a protested tilt over ULBA, 11-10 and then came back to cop a regularly scheduled tilt from the same entry, 16-5.

In the completion of the protested tilt, the IH entry was trailing 10-6 in the fifth, the point from which the game was played but scored five runs in the last three innings to win. In the extra inning, the eighth, the winning marker crossed the plate.

Ray Sekoski received credit for the win after relieving Steve Hardoby.

The regularly scheduled tilt found the Hallers banging out 17 hits good for 16 runs in a game in which the issue was never in doubt. Again it was Ray Sekoski receiving credit for the victory although giving way to Steve Mayernik.

Paul Pacak with three singles, Ray Johnson with a homer, Sekoski with a homer and single and Gene Quinn with a homer and triple paced Italian Hall. Bob Pauline and Slick Schilling had two hits each to lead the losing ULBA team at bat.

Tonight's twin-bill features Myfords against PNA in the first game and MPSA and the Cro-Ams in the second tilt. The opener starts at 5:30 o'clock.

Beaver LL May Bolt Program

AMBRIDGE, Pa. (UP)—Beaver County Little League officials meet here tonight to decide whether to bolt the parent loop and start one of their own.

The move under consideration grew out of a disputed playoff game last Friday between New Brighton and Duquesne at Aliquippa.

The dispute resulted when Duquesne pitcher George (Buddy) Benedict pitched more than the 12 innings per week allowed under Little League rules.

Three umpires forfeited the game to New Brighton and Duquesne appealed the forfeit to state Little League headquarters in Williamsport, which ordered the game replayed.

Duquesne won the replay, 2-1, Monday.

The commissioners of District Three, (Beaver County), Five (Allegheny County) and Six previously had upheld the forfeit ruling. District Three Commissioner Thomas Forrester subsequently resigned.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Firm Plan, Stroke

On days when I am chipping well, I never have any trouble deciding which club I want to chip with or how I want to play the shot. But on days when I'm either too long or too short on cips, I find that many shot-plans occur to me as I walk up to the ball.

Should I pitch the ball most of the way to the pin? . . . Or pitch it just over the edge of the green and let it roll the rest of the way? . . . Or maybe I should let it hit short of the green and bounce on?

The way out of this dilemma, I have found: is to select one of the plans quick — and forget the other possibilities. Go ahead and make your choice right away! The longer you stand there undecided, the more apt you are to give the ball an indecisive kind of blow when you make the shot. Get it over with! It may be the wrong choice, but at least you'll have a chance to make it work out right. If you hit the shot with confusion in mind, you don't have any chance at all!

All-Stars in Final Week of Grid Drills

CHICAGO (UP)—The College All Stars began their last full day of drills today before Friday night's annual meeting with the National Football League champions, the New York Giants.

Coach Curly Lambeau planned to continue his secret workouts for the collegians at the Northwestern training camp early today and then will send his squad through a night drill in Soldiers' Field, site of the game.

Probably Thursday the collegians will take only light drills without pads.

Lambeau has stressed offensive maneuvers for the past week and was expected to continue drills on this phase today. However, his defensive platoon has been working simultaneously under assistant Coach Hunk Anderson.

Lambeau has given no indication of the division of his 47-player squad into offensive and defensive units and it was likely that he would not make public what assignments his individual players will get until he takes the club on the field Friday.

Rockets Win In Prep Playoff, 6-4

It'll be the Hilltops against the Rockets today battling for the right to meet the Blackhawks for the local Prep League title.

The Rockets advanced to the semi-final round with a 6 - 4 win over the White Sox yesterday while the Hilltops finished the season in second to assure themselves of a semi-final berth.

Hurler Mike Berthince won his own game yesterday when he singled over second base with runners on second and third and the score knotted. Ted Nemoseck had doubled a run home earlier.

After today's game, the winners will await a Friday tilt with the 'Hawks as the Knot-hole day tomorrow will idle the teams.

Kline Snaps Pirate Streak

Beats Phils On 5-Hitter For 5-3 Win

By HAL WOOD

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Ronnie Kline came through for the Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday night with a five-hit performance which sent the Philadelphia Phils down to defeat, 5-3.

For Kline, the biggest loser in the major leagues, it was the first victory since June 9. He retired the last 16 men to face him while outdueling rookie sensation Jack Sanford.

One Bad Throw

With the exception of one bad pitch, Kline was in command the entire way. The bad throw came in the fourth inning when outfielder Harry Anderson belted his 13th homer of the season with two men aboard to account for all the Philadelphia runs.

After Willie Jones singled in the fourth with two out, Kline pitched hitless ball the rest of the way, fanning four Phils including power hitter Stan Lopata twice.

The Pirates scored three runs on singles by Roberto Clemente, Dick Groat and Bob Skinner and Gene Freese's homer to tie the game at 3-3 in the sixth.

Sanford to Showers

Sanford was sent to the showers in the seventh when Bill Virdon singled with one out and moved to third when Ed Bouchee let a perfect double play ball get through him. Skinner singled for one run after Bob Miller took over the pitching chores and Frank Thomas brought home another with a sacrifice fly to deep center.

The Pirates, idle today, play Philadelphia again Thursday.

White Sox Cop 12-11 LL Minors Thriller

The White Sox edged the Yankees 12-11 in a thrilling Little Minor League tilt here yesterday.

A total of eight extra-base blows were struck with Raymond Roskos of the White Sox leading the way with two triples. Five hurlers also saw action in the tilt which wasn't decided until the last inning when the Yankees tied it at 11-10 only to have the Sox come back and win with a single tally in the last inning.

Pittsburghers 'Out'

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP) — Pittsburgh was eliminated from the Boy's League World Series Tuesday by Davenport, Iowa, in a 10-7 thriller that lasted 12 innings.

Giants Ready to Announce Shift Of Franchise

NEW YORK (UP) — The New York Giants, with San Francisco's formal offer in hand, will present that offer to the club's board of directors next week and probably announce the franchise shift.

Brooklyn's announcement of its franchise shift to Los Angeles was not expected to be far behind, since Dodger hopes of a new stadium in Brooklyn just about disappeared Tuesday with publication of an engineers' report that it would take from 50 to 55 million dollars to build a new stadium and improve its downtown Brooklyn site.

In a meeting with Giant stockholders Tuesday club president Horace Stoneham told them it would be in the best interests of the team to move to San Francisco.

In San Francisco, Mayor George Christopher said he had mailed the formal San Francisco offer to Stoneham for presentation to the team board of directors.

"I'm sure we'll have the whole thing cleared up by the end of the month," said Christopher.

No one would concede that the moves were absolutely certain. Christopher said that the "Chances are about 90 per cent" that San Francisco will have the Giants in 1958.

The Dodgers' president, Walter O'Malley, has said many times he will take the team to Los Angeles if the City of New York does not help him get the stadium he wants at the location he wants. It was clear the city would not spend 50 million dollars for it.

Edgewood Courts Favor British

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The British Wightman Cup tennis team, whose chances of winning the coveted trophy for the first time since 1930 are admittedly "only reasonably good," may have an ace in the hole because of the playing surface of the Edgeworth Club courts.

Play in the 29th renewal of the matches begins Saturday at nearby Edgeworth where the courts have a teniko finish, a hard surface of pulverized slate and clay with fast-drying qualities.

It marks the first time in the history of Wightman competition that the matches will take place on other than a grass court. In the eyes of the British this gives them only an outside chance since they have had more opportunity to play on composition courts.

Mrs. Mary Halford, non-playing British team captain, conceded that inexperience will affect her team's chances. She put it this way:

"Our chances of winning are only reasonably good."

On the other hand, American team captain Mrs. Margaret Osborne DuPont said the "matches will be much closer and more exciting" since the British girls "have more opportunity to play on composition courts."

The level of the Gulf of Mexico is about eight inches higher than that of the outer Atlantic ocean.

Varrichione Inks Steeler Contract

OLEAN, N.Y. (UP) — Steeler holdout Frank Varrichione signed a contract Tuesday for the same pay as last season, a spokesman for the pro football club said.

The tackle came to terms after a long distance phone conversation with president Art Rooney who is vacationing at a seashore resort.

Varrichione's signing brought the Steeler roster to 45 as the team went into its third day of practice.

Spahn Hurls Braves Back into First Place—Thanks to 'Cousins'

By TIM MORIARTY

Warren Spahn ran into his "cousin" from Cincinnati just in time to pitch the Milwaukee Braves back into first place in the National League pennant scramble.

During his 13-year major league career, Spahn always has been a rough hombre for Cincinnati to deal with. So when the Redlegs showed up at Milwaukee's County Stadium Tuesday night, Manager Fred Haney just tossed a ball to the Buffalo, N.Y., native and said, "Go get 'em, Warren."

Spahn had finished only one of his last seven starts, but the sight of those Redlgs in their sleeveless shirts was all he needed. Although the veteran southpaw allowed nine hits, he hung on gamely to gain his fourth victory of the season over the Redlegs, 5-4, and boost the Braves back into first place, a half game ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Braves scored their decisive run in the sixth on a double by rookie outfielder Bob Hazle.

Cards Now Second

The Chicago Cubs dropped St. Louis into second place by whipping the Cardinals, 8-2; the Pittsburgh Pirates broke an eight-game losing streak at the expense of the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-3, and the New York Giants blanked the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5-0, in other National League games.

The New York Yankees increased their American League lead to seven games by stopping the Washington Senators, 4-0; the Kansas City Athletics presented new Manager Harry Craft with a 3-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox; the Cleveland Indians trounced the Detroit Tigers, 5-1, and the Baltimore Orioles edged the Boston Red Sox, 2-1.

Bob Rush, the Cubs' hard-luck right-hander, pitched his first complete game of the season against the Cardinals, allowing only six hits. Stan Musial hit his 25th home run of the campaign while Bob Speake and Cal Neeman homered for the Cubs, who raked three Cardinal Pitchers for 13 hits.

Ronnie Kline allowed only five hits, including a three-run homer by Harry Anderson, as he outdueled the Phillies' Jack Sanford. It was Kline's first victory since June 9 and only his third of the year against 15 losses. Sanford's record now is 14-4.

Bobby Thomson drove in three runs with two triples to back up Curt Barclay's five - hit shutout against the Dodgers.

Bob Turley gave up only four hits—two each by Jim Lemon and Art Schult—as he stretched his string of consecutive scoreless innings to 22 against the Senators.

WASHINGTON (UP) — Congressional action has been postponed until next year on two flood control projects sought by Western Pennsylvania interests and one which they opposed.

The projects were part of the omnibus rivers and harbors authorization bill. Decision to delay consideration of the bill until next session was announced Tuesday by House Speaker Sam Rayburn.

Included in the measure were the $1,286,000 flood control plan for Chartiers Creek in Washington County, the $1,188,000 flood control project for Sandy Lick Creek, Brookville, Jefferson County, and the $12,585,000 dam project for the West Branch of the Mahoning River near Youngstown Ohio.

The Mahoning dam has been opposed by Pittsburgh shipping interests who claim it would be the opening wedge for a canal between Lake Erie and the Ohio River via Youngstown.

Bloom Critical Of Gov. Leader

INDIANA, Pa. (UP)—Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom told an Indiana County GOP rally Tuesday Gov. George M. Leader "can't stand any Legislature that won't rubber stamp what he wants."

Bloom said an appraisal of the governor's vetoes of bills passed by the recent Assembly "shows he has no faith whatsoever in the elected representatives of the people."

"He wants to substitute blank check government for legislative control of appropriations," Bloom charged.

Bloom apparently referred to a series of so-called "watchdog" bills passed by the Republican controlled Legislature to curb state spending and budgets but rejected by the governor.

New Skyscraper to 'Replace' Hostess

NEW YORK (UP) — Marilyn Miele's construction is pretty fetching. But she confessed today she hasn't a chance against another one nearby—the new skyscraper going up in Rockefeller Center.

Marilyn, a tall, handsomely proportioned brunette of 23, is summertime hostess for a Sidewalk Superintendents' Club, founded by a Rockefeller in 1938 and re-activated one month ago

Already 100,000 visitors, many of them women, have stopped at the club to observe what now is one of the city's biggest holes in the ground Ultimately the hole will be filled with the 47-story Time and Life building. Cost, 70 million dollars.

Club headquarters is a 65-foot long painted pavilion, with bright red and blue striped pennants, flower boxes, model cranes which work, and 10 spacious windows which give an unobstructed view of the excavation

Marilyn's job, a unique one, is to meet and greet sight-seers, register those who want to join the club, and hand them a membership card which bears the motto: "The best pilots stand on the shore."

Miss Miele, who in the wintertime teaches school on Long Island, also explains what is going on "down there." I asked her what was, and she answered:

"Ten to 15 tons of rock and dirt come up with each truckload; 85,000 tons moved so far; ultimately 200,000 tons will come out. The excavation will be 38 to 40 feet deep."

The center gave Miss Miele a thorough briefing before she started work. But not enough to help her with one woman's question. She asked, "What is bedrock?"

"I've got to look that one up," said Marilyn today.

Jersey Governor Names Supreme Court Justice

TRENTON, N.J. (UP) — Associate Justice Joseph Weintraub was named by Gov. Robert B. Meyner today as his choice for chief justice of the state Supreme Court.

Weintraub, a 49-year-old Democrat and the youngest justice on the bench, would succeed the late Chief Justice Arthur T. Vanderbilt, who died June 16 of a heart ailment. Vanderbilt was a Republican.

Meyner also announced the appointments of Superior Court judges John J. Francis and Haydn Proctor as associate judges of the Supreme Court. Francis is a Democrat and Proctor a Republican. Both men are 54.

Francis would fill a vacancy on the high court's bench. Proctor would succeed Justice A. Dayton Oliphant, a Republican, who retires in October.

Meyner is required to give one week's public notice before submitting his appointments to the Senate for confirmation. The Senate is scheduled to meet August 19.

If the Senate approves all three appointments, the political complexion of the court would be four Democrats and three Republicans

Stocks Gain Support After Slight Drop

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks met some support today after a wide break Tuesday carried the industrial average well below the 500-level.

The market had a group of news items to contend with. Two were regarded as unfavorable. One of the latter—a rise in the prime interest rate—hit the market Tuesday. The other was a denial by the Civil Aeronautics Board of a plea by major air lines for an emergency 6 per cent passenger fare boost.

Late Tuesday, the Interstate Commerce Commission granted railroads a freight rate increase ranging from 4 per cent in the South to 7 per cent in the north. Western Maryland rose 1⅛ points and fractional gains were set by New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Illinois Central, and Santa Fe. Union Pacific and Atlantic Coast Line eased. Nickel Plate held unchanged.

WHO, ME? — On the witness stand in Washington, Sam Getlan, listed as president of a "paper" local allegedly set up to help James R. Hoffa control New York Teamsters unions, told the Senate racket probers he was unaware that he even held office. He was carried on the records as president of Teamsters Local 258 when its charter was granted in 1955.

Reds' Krushchev Arrives in Berlin For Conference

BERLIN (UP)—Communist Boss Nikita Khrushchev arrived here today to begin a seven-day visit that may result in the conclusion of a separate peace perpetuating the division of conquered Germany.

The Red leader was accompanied by Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan, Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Deputy Foreign Trade Minister I. Kumykin. Premier Nikolai Bulganin, who usually has accompanied Khrushchev on such jaunts in the past, stayed home.

The Khrushchev party left Moscow by jet airliner at 8:50 a.m. (2:50 a.m. e.d.t.). They transferred to a train somewhere on the outskirts of Red Berlin, and arrived at East Station about noon (7 a.m. e.d.t.)

The change from plane to train apparently was made because it was easier to organize a welcoming demonstration at the railroad station in central Berlin than it would have been at one of the city's outlying airports.

To Probe into Submarine Crash

NEW LONDON, Conn., (UP)—Atlantic Fleet Headquarters of the U. S. Navy appoints a board of inquiry today to investigate the underwater collision of two submarines off the New Jersey coast.

The submarines Tusk and Cobber collided at 4:39 a. m. e.d.t. Tuesday during routine maneuvers in the Atlantic about 100 miles south of this submarine base.

No injuries were reported by either vessel. Each of the undersea craft carried a crew of 74 enlisted men and 8 officers.

Neither submarine shipped water and both were able to navigate under their own power into wet docks at the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corps, in nearby Croton for repairs.

The Navy would not release details of the collision until a full investigation of damages was completed. The depth at which the submarines crashed was not immediately known.

Heap of Rubbish

CHICAGO (UP)—Visitors to Chicago (UP)—Visitors to Chicago will return home with a tall tale about the Windy City's cleanup week campaign. A 20-foot high basket capable of holding 40,000 pounds of rubbish was put on a street corner and billed as the "world's largest litter basket."

Confidential Case Jury Picked

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UP)—The first of a parade of witnesses that may include more than 100 reluctant movie stars take the stand today at the Confidential Magazine criminal libel trial which the state hopes to "keep clean."

The prosecution and defense late Tuesday finally settled on a jury of seven men and five women after three days of questioning 74 prospective jurors. The trial was to open its fourth session with opening arguments today followed by testimony from prosecution witnesses.

New York bankers Anthony Raggano and Max Buchwalter were expected to be the first to take the stand. The men at the grand jury hearing testified that numerous checks were issued by Confidential Magazine to Hollywood Research, Inc.

The state charged defendants Fred and Marjorie Meade operated Hollywood Research as a gossip-gathering agency for Confidential. The Meades maintain that they are on trial rather than the magazine.

More than 100 celebrities have been subpenaed to appear as "defense witnesses" at the trial. Defense Attorney Arthur J. Crowley announced plans to put the celebrities on the spot by asking them if stories printed about them in Confidential were true.

However, the state wants to keep the trial as clean as possible.

May Probe Philly Subway Blast

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—A two-year report on mechanical failures of Philadelphia Transportation Co. equipment was expected to determine the possibility of a grand jury investigation into the electrical explosion on a Broad Street Subway train which injured 66 persons last Friday.

Judge Joseph Sloane Tuesday asked District Attorney Victor H. Blanc to study the report to determine whether he still wanted the investigation.

Sloane said that if the accident had any "criminal element," it possibly would be a matter for a grand jury."

He added, however, that "if this concerns the safety of the public in the future, it would not be a grand jury matter."

Blanc had earlier asked Sloane to charge the August grand jury to investigate the explosion and possibly the whole equipment maintenance program of the PTC.

Beaver County Coroner Thomas Todd said papers found on the body indicated Moody had been enroute home from Japan on a leave.

A railroad spokesman said Moody was a passenger on the Pennsy's Chicago - to - New York Liberty Limited. Todd said Moody may have jumped or fallen from the speeding train early Tuesday.

Armed Services Told to Slash Civilian Help

WASHINGTON (UP)—An order to the military services to slash civilian employment was the latest piece of "bad news" handed out by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson in his final days as a cabinet officer.

Wilson, whose successor was expected to be announced today, ordered the services Tuesday to halt civilian hiring immediately and workkout plans for reduced civilian empoyment.

The military services presently hire 1,160,914 civilians around the world. They were given until the end of this month to come up with a reduced figure.

In another move the Defense Department announced plans today to pull the 9th Marine Regiment out of Japan and send it to Okinawa. This was not a manpower cut, however, but a step in announced plans to get all U. S. ground forces out of Japan promptly. The regiment numbers 5,000 to 7,000 men.

Wilson had forecast further efforts to save money at his news conference last week when he said not all the bad news is out yet, I'm sorry to say."

He told how he had to cut spending by $2,200,000,000 to keep under a 38 billion dollar spending ceiling for the 12 months ending next June 30.

Free lunch and beverages were served by a group of mothers in the early evening. Later drawings were held for 20 prizes donated by local merchants.

After dusk, the guests saw a movie and were treated to ice cream, watermelon and cake.

The organization decided to hold such an event every year. Present plans call for a corn roast soon and a Christmas party.

Organized this year, the musical unit has reaped many honors in parades. They have captured prizes in 15 of 16 parades so far this year.

Robert Jodon, who organized the outfit, said today that applications for membership in the group will be taken until Sept. 3. He urges interested boys or parents to contact him at once.

Radio Broadcast Informs of Tragedy

SOMERSET, Pa. (UP)—The parents and grandparents of a youth killed in a highway collision learned of the tragedy through a radio broadcast Tuesday.

Samuel E. Fisher, 19, McDonaldtown, Somerset County, was killed Monday night when his convertible rammed the rear of a cattle truck near Somerset.

James McCune, stepfather of the dead victim, said he and others others were dining near Conneaut Pa., when they heard news of the accident.

The foursome, on vacation, returned home immediately.

Supermarkets Getting Bigger, More Generous and Fancier

By CLYDE H. FARNSWORTH

NEW YORK (UP)—Supermarkets in their scramble for the shopper's dollar are getting bigger than football fields, fancier than new cars and more generous with the free gifts than Santa Claus.

Behind it all is the need for high volume traffic to offset rock bottom profit margins. Stores are being built to handle $20,000 a week in sales. Two decades ago a $1,000 a week store was considered a gem.

To woo customers supermarkets offer anything from football tickets to new cars. It's done through contests, door prizes, trading stamps or premiums. Here are some of the more unusual give-aways:

American Stores Co., Philadelphia buys out all the seats for a football game and packs the stadium with supermarket fans.

Jitney Jungle Stores, Jackson, Miss., gives away a car loaded with groceries and ready to go on a fishing trip.

J. Weingarten, Inc., of Houston offers tickets for a "fat stock" of beef animal show. Incidentally, shoppers also can buy this chain's securities in its supermarkets. The only requirement is that the purchaser be a Texan.

To handle the heavy traffic the stores have got to be large. Some markets being built now are several times bigger than a football field.

One, opening in October in New Orleans, boasts 160,000 square feet on the ground floor and 40,000 square feet in the mezzanine. A Schweggman brothers store, it will sell everything from fishing rods to auto parts.

But bigness and giveaways are not enough. The stores also have to keep customers happy while they're inside shopping.

Consequently, air conditioning is commonplace. Piped - in music and "kiddie corrals" — some with professional sitters — are growing in popularity. And novelties such as air curtain "doorless" doors have been introduced.

Supermarkets are turning more and more to non-foods, too, to draw traffic. Chain officials say these products — ranging from tooth paste to phonograph records —offer shoppers a way to kill two and sometimes many more birds with one stone.

Non - foods also yield fatter profit margins than the approximate $1 of net profits for every $100 of sales in the food items.

A recent survey by the folding paper box association showed that non-foods occupy up to 50 per cent of the selling area in supermarkets and contribute up to 50 per cent of profits.

These non - foods accounted for $4,500,000,000 in sales in 1956, against $700 million in 1946, the survey showed.

Altogether chains sold about $20 billion of goods last year, according to the trade magazine chain store age. That figure is about eight times the level two decades ago.

British Troops Advance Toward Rebel Stronghold

BAHREIN, Persian Gulf (UP) British and Muscat troops advanced today to the village of Izz, 14 miles from the rebel stronghold of Nizwa. No contact with rebel forces was reported.

The British troops and the forces of the Sultan of Muscat and Oman were scheduled to stand at Izz and then advance on the Nizwa fortress Thursday.

Capture of Nizwa would end phase one of the operations against tribesmen of the rebellious Imam of Oman, the spiritual leader who is trying to take over the desert country from the pro-British sultan.

British Royal Air Force jet planes dropped leaflets on Izz five or ten minutes before the troops moved in, calling on the inhabitants to give every assistance to the "army of the sultan."

RAF jets already had carried out a series of raids against rebel-held forts in the area around Nizwa and bombed the circular fortress there to soften up the rebels for the land action.

The British-Muscat advance was made burning hot deserts in 140 degree heat despite predictions in Cairo by the Imam's representative, Sheikh, Mohammed El Harithy, that the "white hot inferno" would make an advance impossible.

To Visit Vatican

BONN, Germany (UP)—President Theodor Heuss will be the first German head of state in more than 50 years to visit the Vatican, it was announced today. A West German government bulletin said Heuss, a Protestant, would make a two-day official visit in November. The last Vatican visit by a German state chief was made by Kaiser Wilhelm II in 1903.

Armed Forces Suggests 33 Ways For Young Men to Beat Draft

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP) —About 9 o'clock each weekday morning, a messenger pedals a bicycle cart through the corridors of the Pentagon Building to deliver a bulging sack of mail to Room 2D776.

The sack contains, on a typical day, more than 1,500 letters and postcards from all parts of the nation. Each bears a simple but sufficient address: "It's Your Choice, Washington 25, D. C."

The writers receive by return mail a free 20 - page pamphlet which is rapidly becoming a popular "how to" book. Compiled by the Defense Department, and handsomely printed in color, it lists 33 different ways to beat the draft by enlisting in the regular or reserve forces or the National Guard.

The title—"It's Your Choice" — sums up the new sales pitch which the armed services are using, with considerable success, to woo volunteers.

The pamphlet points out that "every physically an mentally qualified man between the ages of 18½ and 26 faces an obligation to perform at least six years of military service, which may be fulfilled by various combinations of active and reserve duty." The big decision which confronts thousands of youths each year is whether to "volunteer and get it over with" or wait to be drafted.

Smarter To Volunteer

The services are telling young men that it's a lot smarter to volunteer.

If you wait to be drafted, they point out, you will have no choice of service, assignment or type of training. Virtually all draftees go into the Army to be trained as foot soldiers. They serve two years on active duty, followed by two years in the ready reserve and two years in the standby reserve.

The ready reserve is just what the name implies. It consists of trained (or partially trained) men who can be called into active duty by the President at any time. Members are generally required to attend weekly drill sessions and a two-week encampment each summer. The standby reserve can be called up only if Congress declares a national emergency; its members are not required to attend drills or other training activities.

The youth who wants to keep his period of active duty as short as possible, and is willing to pay for this privilege by serving a prolonged hitch in the ready reserve, will find a wide variety of tempting enlistment opportunities.

He can, for example, sign up in the Air National Guard for only 11 weeks of active duty, followed by five years and 41 weeks in the ready reserve.

Program Deadline Soon

The Army National Guard offers a similar deal, open only to those in the 17 to 18½ age bracket. But if you're interested, hurry to the recruiting office. The deadline for enlistments in the Army program is Sept 30.

The most popular "courses" are those which call for six months of active duty training, followed by periods of ready reserve participation ranging from 2½ to 7½ years (depending on the service and the age of the enlistee.) This kind of "short hitch" is currently available in all of the services except the Navy. But the Air Force has very small quotas for six-month enlistees and is "highly selective" of recruits.

If you're not in a big rush to get your active duty behind you, you may want to sign up in the enlisted reserve, an option offered by all services except the Air Force.

This calls for two years of active duty—same as the draft—but you get the right to choose your service, a particular branch within that service, and with some limitations, the type of technical training you will receive.

An even wider range of choice is open to the youth who will sign up for a regular enlistment (minimum period: Three years in the Army, Marines or Coast Guard; four years in the Air Force or Navy.). Some of the longer and more complex technical training courses are ruled out for two-year enlistees, but the "full hitch" volunteer can pick any kind of training he is mentally qualified to absorb.

Chances Are Slim

And what of the able - bodied, unattached young man who resists all these blandishments? What are his chances of "sneaking through" to age 26 without being drafted.

Very slim, according to Selective Service officials.

Draft calls during the past year have ranged from as low as 6,000 a month to as high as 17,000, with the average about 14,000.

About 35 per cent of the supposed 1A's are rejected by the Army when they go up for their pre-induction physical examinations. Others escape the draft by becoming fathers, who have a blanket deferment under present regulations. Thousands each month sign up voluntarily, thus reducing the pool available for filling draft calls.

At present, most draft boards are calling men out of the 22-year-old age group.

Once a man has received an induction notice from his draft board it is too late to choose one of the voluntary enlistment programs. This point is heavily stressed in the Pentagon's recruiting literature.

State Reminds of Building Regulations

With the property improvement season in full swing, Secretary of Highways Joseph J. Lawler today reminded property owners along State highways that they should consult with Department officials in their districts to make certain that improvements to tracts abutting highway rights-of-way conform to regulations established by the General Assembly.

The Secretary calls particular attention to regulations governing construction of driveways and approaches to business places and homes filling in areas adjacent to highway rights-of-way and blocking or damaging drainage facilities installed to protect roadways.

Before beginning construction of a driveway, application must be made to the district Department office for approval of location, design and construction.

The State law reads:

"No person shall commence the construction or layout of any proposed driveway prior to receipt of a written permit approving the location, design and mode thereof, signed by the district engineer and containing such reasonable terms and conditions as the Department may find necessary to impose."

Ample Time

The department desires that property owners planning such work, allow ample time for district officials to conduct an investigation and process the application. These applications are available from district offices on request.

Contractors and property owners will be held responsible for removal or alteration of facilities as required to safeguard highways.

State law grants the Department authority to open drains on private property and to prevent closing of existing drains or ditches.

It is unlawful to discharge sewage or washwater or other unsanitary material onto highways.

Adenauer Has 17 Grandchildren

BONN, Germany (UP) — There was an od man who had so many grandchildren he didn't know...

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced in an election meeting in Kaiserslautern his 16th grandchild had just been born to one of his daughters, Frau Lotte Malthaupt.

The next day he called in newsmen and said a recount disclosed it was his 17th.

EN ROUTE TO EUROPE — En route to Europe aboard the S. S. Queen Frederica is Ned Manderino, of Monessen. He is a member of the Anta Theatre Group which will produce Edith Hamilton's version of "Prometheus Bound" in the ancient theatre of Herodes Atticus in Athens, Greece.

Fined for Slapping Critic of Queen

LONDON (UP) — A police magistrate fined 64-year-old ex-sergeant Philip Kinghorn Burbidge one pound $2.80 today for slapping the young peer who said the Queen's speeches gave him a pain in the neck.

But the magistrate, Sir Laurence Dunne, expressed his sympathy for the defendant in Bow Street police court and said 33-year-old Lord Altringcham had "disgusted and offended" most loyal citizens by his remarks.

Burbidge went into court still angry with the peer and ready to go to jail for the incident—though he admitted he expected only a small fine on charges of "insulting behavior."

"I suppose about 95 per cent of the people of the country are disgusted and offended by what was written" by the peer in his little literary magazine about the Queen's speeches, the magistrate said.

Burbidge himself explained why he had smacked the young lord, second Baron of Tormarton, — "I did just what Prince Philip would have done but couldn't."

He pleaded guilty to charges of "insulting behavior" and added, "I thought due to the scurrilous attack of Lord Altringcham it was all a decent Briton could do to show his resentment."

Sir Laurence, in fining Burbidge, said most Britons did not resent the attack but "99.9 per cent" would not have selected Burbidge, a professional agitator, as their champion.

"All you have done is to make a most unsavory episode more sordid," he said. "On an occasion of this kind the weapons to be used against something everyone resents is the weight of public opinion."

Shark Winds Up In Telephone Booth

WEST LOOE, England (UP)—Several persons in this Cornwall coastal village were unable to use the local outdoor telephone booth Tuesday.

It was occupied by a five-foot shark.

Authorities had no explanation but speculated it was left there by an absentminded fisherman.

Acute Shortage of Auto Mechanics Reported in U.S.

PHILADELPHIA (UP) - The American Vocational Association was asked today to help end an acute shortage of automobile mechanics which is "slowly crippling our economy."

Mel Turner, Chicago indepent garage owner and spokesman for the industry, said schools could attract thousands of students to automotive instruction in vocational and high schools by making courses attractive.

"The motorist is becoming increasingly aware of the fact that he is finding it harder to get service needed for repairs on the new cars with their high-compression engines, power steering, power brakes, air conditioning and complex electrical system," he said.

U. S. Education Commissioner Lawrence G. Derthick told the association,'s convention that high school students must be trained as both specialists and as well-rounded individuals.

"A machinist or carpenter used to be able to get by with knowing the tools of his trade and little else," he said. "Today, he must be able to express himself in good English, he must know mathematics and business procedures, understand government and history and follow rapid social economic changes in the world."

Cripples Harbor

BUENOS AIRES (UP) — The huge Buenos Aires harbor was crippled today by a wildcat strike. Longshoremen, who had staged slowdown strikes for several days in support of demands for higher pay, walked out when their attitude was declared illegal by the government. Servicemen were called in to man wharfside cranes and work in the holds of ships.

The "London Daily Mirror," with a circulation of more than four million, 400 thousand, is the world's largest daily newspaper.

Flood Hits India

CALCUTTA, India (UP)—Overflowing rivers have inundated villages and flooded thousands of homes in east and north central India, officials reported today. Hardest hit were natives living in bamboo huts.

Steel to Justify Price Boost

NEW YORK (UP) — Steel mills will have "reams of evidence" to justify their recent $6 a ton price advance when Senate hearings get underway, possibly this week, Iron Age said today.

"It's an old story with them. Somebody is always anxious to probe steel pricing policies," the national metalworking weekely said.

Preparation of evidence in the newest inquiry has occupied the time of top steel executives for weeks, the magazine noted.

Iron Age said the big question in the steel industry is the degree of strength in the expected third and fourth quarter upturns.

The upswing will depend to a large measure on the extent of automotive buying.

Meanwhile, steel user plant vacation shutdowns have about run their course, Iron Age said, noting that steel buyers generally are taking a closer look at their depleted inventories.

Many buyers are content to let the mills worry about tiding them over with emergency tonnages. But they're keeping a sharp eye peeled for a shift in the market, the magazine said

Iron Age also raised the question this week whether Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers union, might be willing to less of what turn auto labor talks take next summer, the possibility of a work stoppage should not be overlooked.

In relating this to the steel market, the magazine said the auto companies will be producing at top speed in the first half of 1958 as a hedge against a possible labor shutdown.

barter his short - work - week demand for a fat pay boost.

"Reuther and his auto union have been making a lot of noise for a short work-week. But some observers are wondering whether he's not setting up the auto companies for an eleventh hour pitch for a better-than-usual pay hike."

But the magazine said "regard-

Foresee No Increase In Steel Earnings

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—Most of the nation's larger manufacturing firms surveyed by Steel Magazine hold little hope for increasing net earnings over last year's totals, the publication said today.

About 30 per cent of all the reporting companies had lower net earnings for the first half of 1957, with ony the "blue chip" companies showing increases over last year, Steel said.

"Five out of six firms look forward to a better second half," Steel continued, "but few think it will be substantially better."

The profit squeeze was cited as the "universal problem" which contributed to smaller first half earnings.

However, the prospects for steelmakers may be a little bit more encouraging than for other industrial segments, Steel said. It reported that steel producers might still "have a near-record year despite a spotty first half and a softening in the market in the past month."

Steelmaking operations slipped a half point last week to 79 per cent of rated capacity for a yield of 2,022,000 net tons, the magazine reported. For the past month, output in the mills has been hovering in the 78 to 81 per cent range.

The market began to show signs of an increasing order volume during the past week, with August totals already surpassing those of July. Steel said prospects are good that substantial tonnage for September and following months delivery will be placed before the end of the current month.

The steel price adjustment has been practically completed after increases announced earlier in the month, the magazine said. The impact of the price boosts is already reflected in most durable finished foods, the weekly pointed out, with the arithmetical composite on base prices for finished steel reported at $146.19 per net ton for the week ended July 31.

The composite on prime steelmaking scrap rose to $54.50 a gross ton, up 50 cents, after declining steadily since the end of June.

Copper Producer Lowers Prices

NEW YORK (UP) — Phelps Dodge Corp., the nation's second largest copper producer, yesterday cut its price for copper 3-4 cent a pound to 28½ cents.

Other producers are expected to follow the Phelps Dodge lead.

The new price, which follows continued declines in the metal's price in world markets is down 17½ cents from the record 46-cent level prevailing Feb. 17 to July 10, 1956.

Producers last cut prices 2¾ cents a pound on June 19, when Phelps Dodge also was the first to make the announcement.

Sheriff Suggests Radio Hookup

SMETHPORT, Pa. (UP)—McKean County Sheriff William Reese today called for a statewide sheriff's office radio communications hookup to help fight rural crime.

Reese, chairman of the Pennsylvania Sheriffs Assn. radio committee, said the rural crime rate is increasing and many county sheriff offices, lacking manpower, desperately need improved radio communications.

The McKean sheriff, who pioneered the establishment of the nation's first complete police-fire communications system on a county - wide basis, said 40 of the smaller Pennsylvania counties are in urgent need of communications. Thirteen other counties use radio but do not operate on the same frequency.

Reese said he is trying to set up a statewide hookup so all Pennsylvania sheriffs' offices can operate on a single network basis using three frequencies.

HEAP BIG SWAP — Scot Scout David Sharp (left) of Glasgow and American Scout Wayne Brown of Tulsa, Okla., make a heap big swap at the jamboree in Sutton Cornfield, Birmingham, England—David's kilts for a real, for-sure Injun outfit. Both are 16.

Announces Discount Scale

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Federal Housing Administration yesterday announced the maximum discounts which it will permit on home mortgages insured by FHA.

The maximum "point" limits on discounts went into effect today along with the reduction in down payments for FHA - insured home loans. The discounts are in effect premiums paid to a lender for making a loan. The FHA itself does not make loans. It insures private loans made under certain conditions.

Here are the discount ceilings by states and territories:

One point: New York and the New England states.

One and one - half points: Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Two and one-half points: Michigan, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, Alaska, Hawaii, and the Virgin Islands.

Two points: All other states and Puerto Rico.

Nashville Schools to Integrate

By HAROLD JONES

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—One day this summer W. A. Bass, superintendent of schools in Nashville, called the phone company and ordered an unlisted number.

Bass figures he will be a troubled man come next month. Nashville's schools are going to be integrated. It is one of the main places to watch this autumn in the South's desegregation controversy.

This Tennessee capital city will start with integration in the first grade, the idea being the transition will least affect six-year-olds who have not yet built up racial prejudice.

Retires In January

Had the courts waited six months longer to order racial barriers dropped in Nashville, it would have been a problem for someone else than Bass. Now 69, he retires in January. He is a former state commissioner of education who has been superintendent here for 20 years.

Bass doesn't know what the public reaction will be to integration in the largest Southern city yet to try it in grade schools. Nor does he know exactly how many Negroes will show up for integrated classes.

There are approximately 1,250 Negro children to enter the first grade here in September. Estimates by school authorities are that approximately 5 per cent — between 60 and 70 children — will seek admission to schools now exclusively white.

This has been a summer of thoughtful preparation. The federal courts sometime ago approved a "good faith" plan based on first grade integration submitted by the local school people. Since then teachers, PTA groups and church organizations have discussed how to forestall troubles other areas have experienced.

There seems to be a sincere effort here to avoid another clash such as the one at Clinton, Tenn., but it is by no means certain there will not be.

Gets Cold Shoulder

John Kasper is here now, free on appeal after conviction for contempt of court in stirring up trouble at Clinton. He is attempting to organize opposition to Nashville integration.

Kasper started off here about as he did at Clinton — doorbell ringing to urge attendance at pro-segregation rallies. But he has been getting the cold shoulder here from most segregation groups.

These groups are calling on school officials to use laws passed in 1957 that allow "voluntary" segregation and give schools broad pupil assignment powers.

But Bass and his school board contend the Supreme Court desegration ruling kills the effect of such laws.

"The sooner we get this problem out of the way, the sooner we can carry out the main aim of our schools: Teaching children" Bass says.

Democrats Ask Dulles to Name Money-Givers

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Democratic National Committee challenged Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today to produce the names of money-giving Democrats who got ambassadorial jobs from the Republican administration.

"We'll be glad to check on any names when Dulles comes up with them," a committee spokesman said.

A fresh flurry over ambassadors and their political campaign contributions was sparked by Dulles at a news conference Tuesday. He denied charges the administration seeks out heavy contributors to the GOP in filling diplomatic posts.

"The question of contributions is now brought to my attention," Dulles said. "I am told that we have appointed more than one ambassador who has made a substantial contribution to the Democratic campagin fund during the last year."

Asked to identify the Democrats Dulles said with a smile, "I think I know who they are but I will not name then here."

The Democratic National Committee told a reporter David K. E. Bruce is the only Democrat it knows of right off who contributed to the Democratic campaign chest last year and later got a diplomatic appointment. Bruce is United States ambassador to West Germany. He was said to have chipped in $1,500 to the Democrats.

Pay Tribute

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate will pay formal tribute next Wednesday to the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.). The Senate plans to pay formal tribute to the late former Sen. Walter George (D-Ga.) next Monday. George died last Sunday.

Demonstrators to Defy AEC Security

MERCURY, Nev. (UP)—Demonstrators faced with possible imprisonment today indicated they would defy the Atomic Energy Commission for the second time and enter the Nevada Proving grounds in a protest against nuclear testing.

Ten men and a woman were arrested Tuesday for trespass as they walked into the restricted area in a demonstration marking the 12th anniversary of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima.

Nearly 100 AEC security guards stationed behind barbed wire gates were prepared to repulse the demonstration. However, the Nye County sheriff's office stepped in and arrested the "atom-lopers" on charges they violated Nevada's trespass law.

The demonstrators were hauled off to a 20 by 20 feet cement block jail - courthouse building in nearby Beatty. They pleaded guilty but released as imposition of sentence was suspended for a year.

Avert Strike

MIAMI (UP)—A threatened system wide strike Friday by National Air Lines ticket agents and clerks has been postponed pending federal mediation attempts. The 1,700 - member Air Lines Agents Assn. called off strike plans Tuesday and agreed to meet with company officials before the National Mediation Board next week in Washington.

Student Fined For Speeding in Poetical Exchange

OWOSSO, Mich. (UP)—The student was poorer, he wrote to the juror, than many a man who's been stopped by a cop.

But the judge wouldn't budge, to the plea to go free. Instead, he replied, 10 bucks is the fee.

(Michigan State University undergraduate William Pilgrim asked leniency after he was ticketed for speeding. The exchange of correspondence between Pilgrim and Judge Peter J. Maruitak follows.)

Wrote Pilgrim:

Roses are red,
Violets are blue;
Your verdict I dread,
I hope nothing is due.
I'd be there in person
If fate would allow,
But I'm studying hard
and have no money now.
So judge me with mercy;
I've learned O so well
That speeding in Michigan
Is harder than Hell.
Answered the judge:
These college speed demons
Are bad for our state;
With regret we inform you
Ten bucks is your fate.

The red-and-white striped barber pole owes its origin to the days when the barbers also practiced surgery.

In large U. S. cities about 55 per cent of the family clothing dollar is spent for the women and girls, while men and boys account for a little over 40 per cent and infants use most of the rest.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Irene Ferencz, who died 12 years ago today August 7, 1945
We loved you in life, you are dear to us still,
In grief we must bend to God's holy will,
Parting was pain, the shock hard to bear,
Now angels attend you in heaven with care.
But unknown to the world,
You stand by our side
And whisper dear loved ones,
Death cannot divide.

In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather Charles W Carnes who died two years ago today, August 7, 1955

Love Letters Spoil Divorce

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (UP) Mrs Louise F. Pohabel, 29, was denied a divorce from her convict husband Tuesday because of 58 love letters.

Mrs Pohabel, of Jersey City, sought the decree before Superior Court Judge Bernard W Vogel. Her husband, Lawrence, 33, a convicted forger, is an inmate in the state prison at Trenton.

Vogel noted that some of the letters Mrs. Pohabel had sent to her husband since he was sentenced in 1951 were signed with lipstick smears.

Mrs Pohabel testified that she wrote the letters because she was afraid of what would happen if she tried to end her marriage.

Vogel denied the divorce because your 58 letters to him are more eloquent than all your testimony against your husband."

Slay Frenchman

ALGIERS (UP)—Algerian Nationalists seized a crippled Frenchman as he walked through the Casbah Sunday, robbed him, sprayed him with gasoline and set him afire, police said Tuesday night. They also reported rebels near Mostaganem, in west Algeria, machine gunned a civilian car, killed or wounded the four occupants and set the car afire, roasting the wounded alive.

Singer 'Fears' Success

By IRA LURVEY

CHICAGO (UP)—Off in a corner of a tiny, walk-up lounge, behind a piano surrounded by bar stolls, shy Louise Brown sings her poignant ballads, striving for perfection but scared she might become a star.

"Maybe this big time success stuff isn't all it's cracked up to be," she said. "Maybe I'd be better off just staying the way I am Maybe the grass isn't greener on the other side."

Louise's side of the grass means starting to sing about 10 each night. She may keep at it until five the next morning. Sometimes, she has to use her piano scores to push the patrons' stale smoke from her face.

Went To W. Va. State

"Yeah, they're rude, some of them," she said. "But that's the job. Music is part of me. This just has to go along with it It's not really so bad, though. After awhile it starts growing on you."

Louise started when she was nine. It was in Dallas, and she won a local theater's amateur show. From there, it was radio at age 11. Then back to the theaters and eventually to West Virginia State College to major in music

"I lasted three and one-half years," she said. "That's all I could take of school. Then I came back to the clubs."

None Forget Louise

Louise sings as though the song "Bali Ha'i" were written especially for her. Some like her style, some don't. But none forget Louise.

"They tell me I sound like Pearl Bailey. A couple say, 'No, more like Lena Horne.' I tell them I'm not copying anybody. I'm just Louise Brown. Whether it's worth anything or not, I'm simply me There ain't much you can do about that," she said

Melancholia is Louise's specialty, but when the spirit moves her she belts out all songs with equal ease.

Louise has had opportunities to try for big things There have been offers from television outlets and one Broadway show. She's turned them all down

Shirley Jones Slims Down for 'More Scope'

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Shirley Jones, the voluptuous singing star of "Oklahoma," is back in the movies — but in name only.

The rest of Shirley is a shock to movie fans who remember her in the musical classic. The apple-cheeked miss has slimmed down to a sleek, more grown-up actress with a short chic hair-do and whistleable figure.

"I just decided I should lose weight," explained Shirley, who was wearing the shortest shorts in history today to keep cool on her movie set.

"I looked a little too heavy in 'Carousel' and 'Oklahoma.' I thought it would give me more scope if I were thinner."

Shirley has been busy on TV but has not been assigned a role by her studio, 20th Century Fox, since her second movie, "Carousel." She confessed having a renoir-type figure is "limiting" when it comes to roles.

Her first move was to shed 10 pounds by cutting out desserts and starches. Next she trimmed her long blonde curls to an Italian hair-do, lightened her eyebrows and added make-up.

Her wardrobe changed to include clinging sheath dresses.

She also got married a year ago to singer Jack Cassidy, and she thinks "naturally, that matured me."

The first result of the new Shirley Jones came when producer Milo Frank spotted her singing in a TV Cole Porter spectacular last season and gave her a "Playhouse 90" script to read.

"I almost passed out when I read it," the fresh-faced Shirley said.

"I told him I couldn't be happier to play the role of an alcoholic in 'The Big Slide.' I never dreamed anyone would consider that part for me. There was a wonderful reaction from my performance. It opened many other doors."

Now Shirley is back in films, co-starring with Pat Boone in "April Love." They've tacked on a false pony tail hairpiece and made her a farm girl—but at least she gets to wear tight blue jeans and do a strip tease into a shower bath during one musical number. It's her first film job in modern dress.

"Most fans and even some friends don't recognize me these days when they see me on the street," she said. "I'd love to get the part now of a sexy other woman or villainness."

Ladies Invited To Forbes Field And 'On Location'

If you can't beat 'em, join 'em," is the theory behind KDKA-TV's On Location programs for Thursday, Aug. 8 and Friday, Aug. 9 (8:30 — 10 a. m.).

On those days, host Ed King's guests, members of the Pirates, will conduct a baseball clinic for women to teach them the ins and outs of the national pastime so that their husbands will no longer relegate them to second place when baseball season rolls around.

All Pittsburgh women who want to learn the plays, terms and other intricacies of baseball are invited to come to Forbes Field on either Thursday or Friday, at 9:30 a. m., to take part. Those unable to attend can, of course, acquire the same information by watching TV.

On Thursday only women visiting the ball park will be guests of the Pirates following the program for light refreshments and the ball game in the afternoon.

Connellsville Man Seeks Legion Post

A Connellsville man, John W. Collins, is considered the top contender for the post of state commander of the American Legion. The commander will be selected at the annual convention in Harrisburg Saturday.

The Connellsville man is seeking to succeed Joseph Gavenonis, of Mildred, who will precide over the convention activities today through Saturday at the Mosque Building in Harrisburg.

Nominations for the office are scheduled for Friday and the election of the state commander will take place Saturday.

Collins, a World War II veteran, is a former commander of Connellsville Legion Post 301.

A Vaccination That Can Cause Trouble

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Awarding of medical honors to two Duke University Medical School pediatricians has brought attention to a little-known danger which smallpox vaccinations present to certain few children and adults.

Drs. Benjamin A. Johnson and Susan C. Dees recently were honored by the North Carolina Medical Society for a report they made on eczema vaccinatum.

This disease is a generalized spread of cowpox, the disease that produces a sore in ordinary smallpox vaccinations.

A vaccinated person with eczema can contract the disease from his own vaccination. Also, a person with eczema or other skin disease can get it simply by coming in contact with someone who recently has been vaccinated.

Drs. Johnson and Dees list three rules for preventing eczema vaccinatum:

1 — A person with skin disease should not be vaccinated for smallpox.

2—A person who will be in close contact with anyone suffering from skin disease should not be vaccinated.

3 — A vaccinated person should be considered a danger to anyone with skin disease until the scab has fallen from the vaccination.

While eczema vaccinatum is serious — and can be fatal — it is, fortunately, comparatively rare.

Certainly the fact that the disease does exist is no reason for any normal child not to receive smallpox vaccinations. These vaccinations are highly important. It is because of them that smallpox no longer presents any great danger in the United States.

In their study, the Duke pediatricians found eight cases of eczema vaccinatum among 1,230 North Carolina children with eczema who underwent treatment at Duke Hospital.
